EDITORIAL BOARD: Associate Editors—Roger P. Johnson (White Stripes), Donald S. Martin (Leisure Time), William T. Parks (Faculty Glimpses), Philip M. Reilly (Military Life), Frederick M. Scott (Athletic Fields) and Edward E. Willkie (Art Sketches).

Assistant Editors—C. Raymond Brenner, Charles A. Burkholder, Eduardo A. Castillo, George W. Conner, Allen Ellis, Franklin Courtney Ellis, Frank A. Exum, Charles R. Goldinan, T. Michel Huber, O. Carl Schlinke, Jr., Nathan Stroup, and Roger R. Winter.

THE CONTENTS

Around the campus the camera was clicked;
Along with some words, these results were picked—pages 6-17.

Twelve pages contain a lot of interest—big events, familiar places, even some stripes—pages 18-29.

Companies pose for the photographer between pages 30 and 49. But on pages 90-91 the candid camera does the trick.

Next the faculty, caught at their work on page 50 and in a few moments of “relaxation” on page 69.

Glimpses of chapel and assemblies are followed by club and hobby photos.
What pages?—70 to 79.

Athletics call the signals on page 94 and keep passing the ball all the way to page 123.

Leisure time saunters through a few words and more pictures beginning at page 124 and ending at page 129.

The white strippers have their hey-day, flashing their rings and smiles from page 132 to 169.

Roster after roster, both cadet and faculty. “A” begins on page 170, and “Z” closes the alphabet and the book on page 175.

IT HAS ALWAYS BEEN TRADITIONAL FOR YEARBOOKS of various schools to devote the opening sections to a farewell to their campus, to their faculty, and to their classmates. But for us graduates of Culver the task was not quite that easily done; nor could the editors express in words each man's feelings as he went about the Mess Hall during that final breakfast formation, shaking hands with friends whom he had known for years and years and with whom he had then to say good-bye—in some instances good-bye forever . . .

You, of course, recall those moments. There were tears in your eyes as you shook hands and chatted a few minutes with your friends, and there was a certain tugging inside when you halted to salute the flag for the last time at Culver; for you knew you were saying farewell to something which you would never again experience, something which had become a living and vivid part of you; something which would not soon be forgotten. And, as you grasped your diploma in your hand, received the congratulations of the Superintendent, and passed through the Iron Gate, you wished to heaven above that you might hold forever in your memory and deep in your heart that scene, that campus, those friends whom you had drawn so near to you while you were a cadet. In a few fleeting moments there flashed before your eyes your entire school life, and the next instant you stood on the other side of the Iron Gate, no longer a cadet but an alumnus. Yes, for each First Classman it meant the culmination of our cadet careers. Above all, it marked the close of another chapter in Culver's history in which you have all had a part.

NOW YOU ARE AT HOME, RELAXING, THUMBING through these pages, recalling your experiences . . . Those were good times, weren't they? Can you ever forget the Thanksgiving review when the Troop "misplaced" one of its command cars? It was finally found—in the bird sanctuary . . . In the memories of B Company men is instilled the scene when Dan Pope had to crawl through his transom after his door had been accidentally locked.

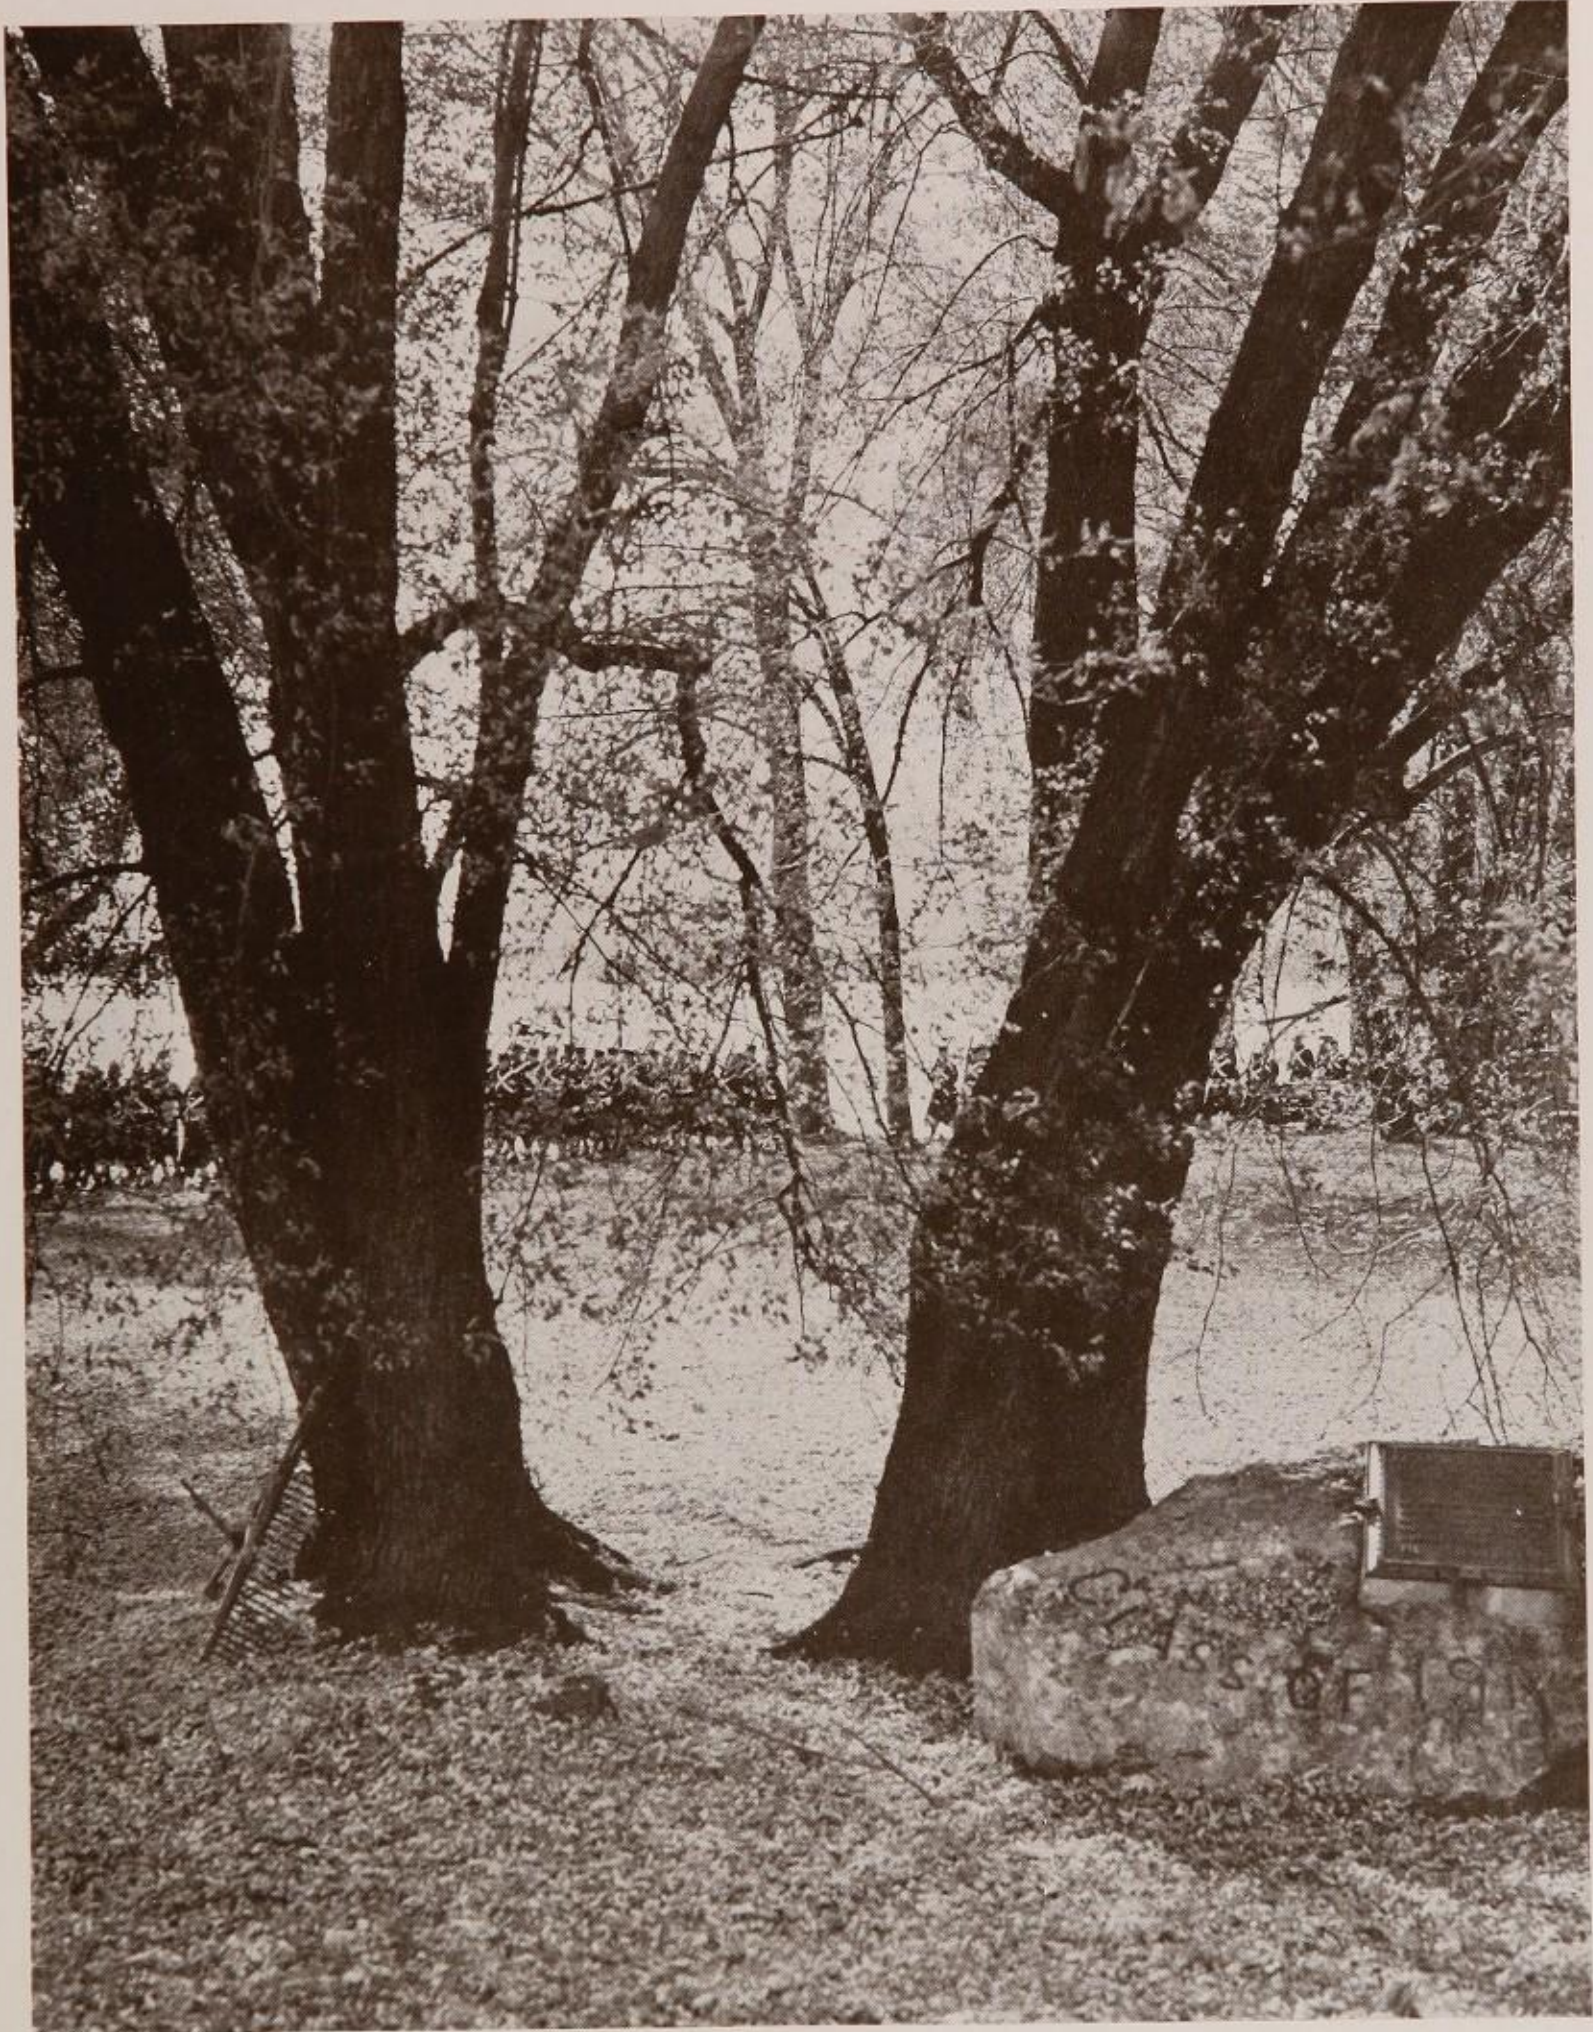

Sure you recall dozens of cadets, remember there were some 650 of us all occupying our several roles . . . There was the time in South when everyone stood outside his room at reveille to prove he was up. And Jack Kihm had an interesting experience. Can you still remember when he was voted "Mr. America" at a girls' school in Michigan? . . . Of course the Troop had the most effective warnings for reveille inspectors. Each time Major Stone appeared, a siren howled its signal through both floors; when that was confiscated, an effective recording of the bombing of London was substituted, complete with exploding of bombs and chattering of machine guns.

. . . Then there was the jingle contest in the Vedette, first prize of which was a beautifully framed picture of John O'Fallon. A mysterious person who signed his entry "Four Eyes" (and was later revealed as Capt. Gowan) was chosen winner. In order to disguise himself, "Four Eyes" claimed his award dressed as in the picture at the bottom . . . Many more incidents occurred, some of which made you laugh, while others—well, perhaps it would be just as well to forget them—or can't you?

IN THE YEARS TO COME YOU'LL NEVER FORGET

Culver, and above all you'll never forget the friendships you made while you were a cadet. For despite some of the hardships and trials, despite drill and classes, reports and guard duty, you gleaned from your years at Culver not only an education, but also the keen friendship and deep admiration of one of the best groups of men ever to be found anywhere . . . The editors hope that this book will never grow old, that it will have a place on your library shelf forever, and that it will help you to recall those good times may be found pictures, words, and those years on that campus in Call are presented every twist event, events big or small which with your friends. In these pages more pictures which will recall Indiana. Throughout this Roll and turn of your cadet life, every you experienced at Culver, from the time you entered "one September day" as a plebe until the moment you graduated and left the shores of Maxinkuckee. We have tried to present this book to you as informally as possible—just as you remember your good times at school. So don't consider this a stilted record of 1947-48, but rather as a remembrance of your Culver days . . . a remembrance written by your friends . . . a remembrance intended for you alone. Particularly it is written for all who have had a part in this year at Culver and generally for those who want to remember . . . Yes, this is your book.

THE FAMILIAR CAMPUS . . . remember how it looked in '47-'48. You undoubtedly recall the beautiful library, the Rec, Old Main, the Armory, the Quadrangle, the various campus walks and other spots. Graphic glimpses of the campus as recorded here suggest something of the beauty of the setting.

Entrance to North, where the Troop lived, worked, and studied
 This entrance was symbolical of the front door to your Culver home.
 In Winter, Spring, and Fall, the entrance to North, East, Main, West, South, Argonne and C.T., beckoned you. In one of them you were a member of a rather large family—a company of cadets.
 Here with your roommate you studied, slept, and kept house.

The winter-buried Shack, where steaks, hamburger plates, and malts were enjoyed with friends on permit . . . where you spent precious minutes before C.Q. buying cokes and sundaes to liven up the study hours . . . where company Christmas parties, banquets, and other good times were held. The Shack was adjacent to and an integral part of the Inn—a rendezvous where everyone gathered at every opportunity.

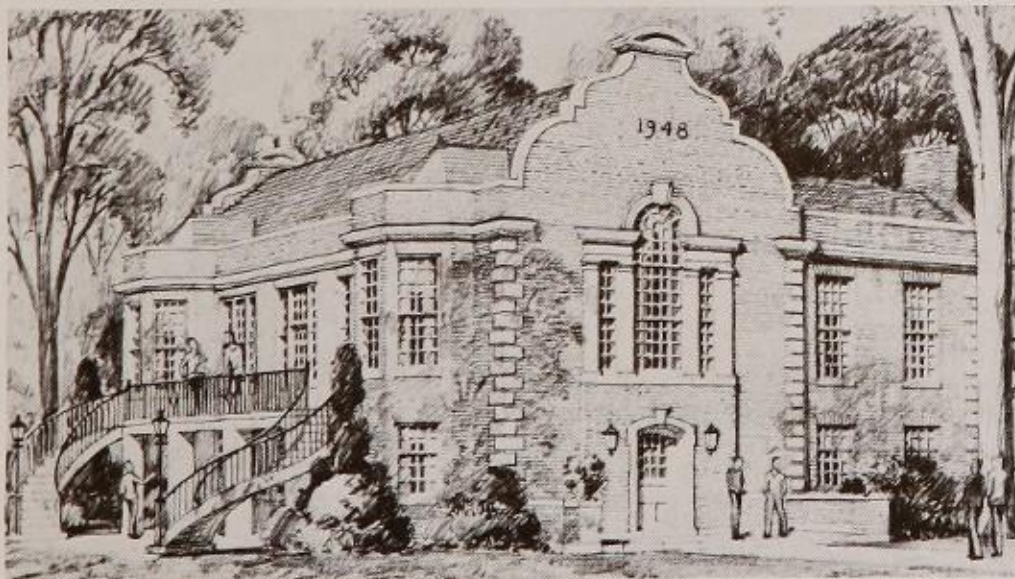

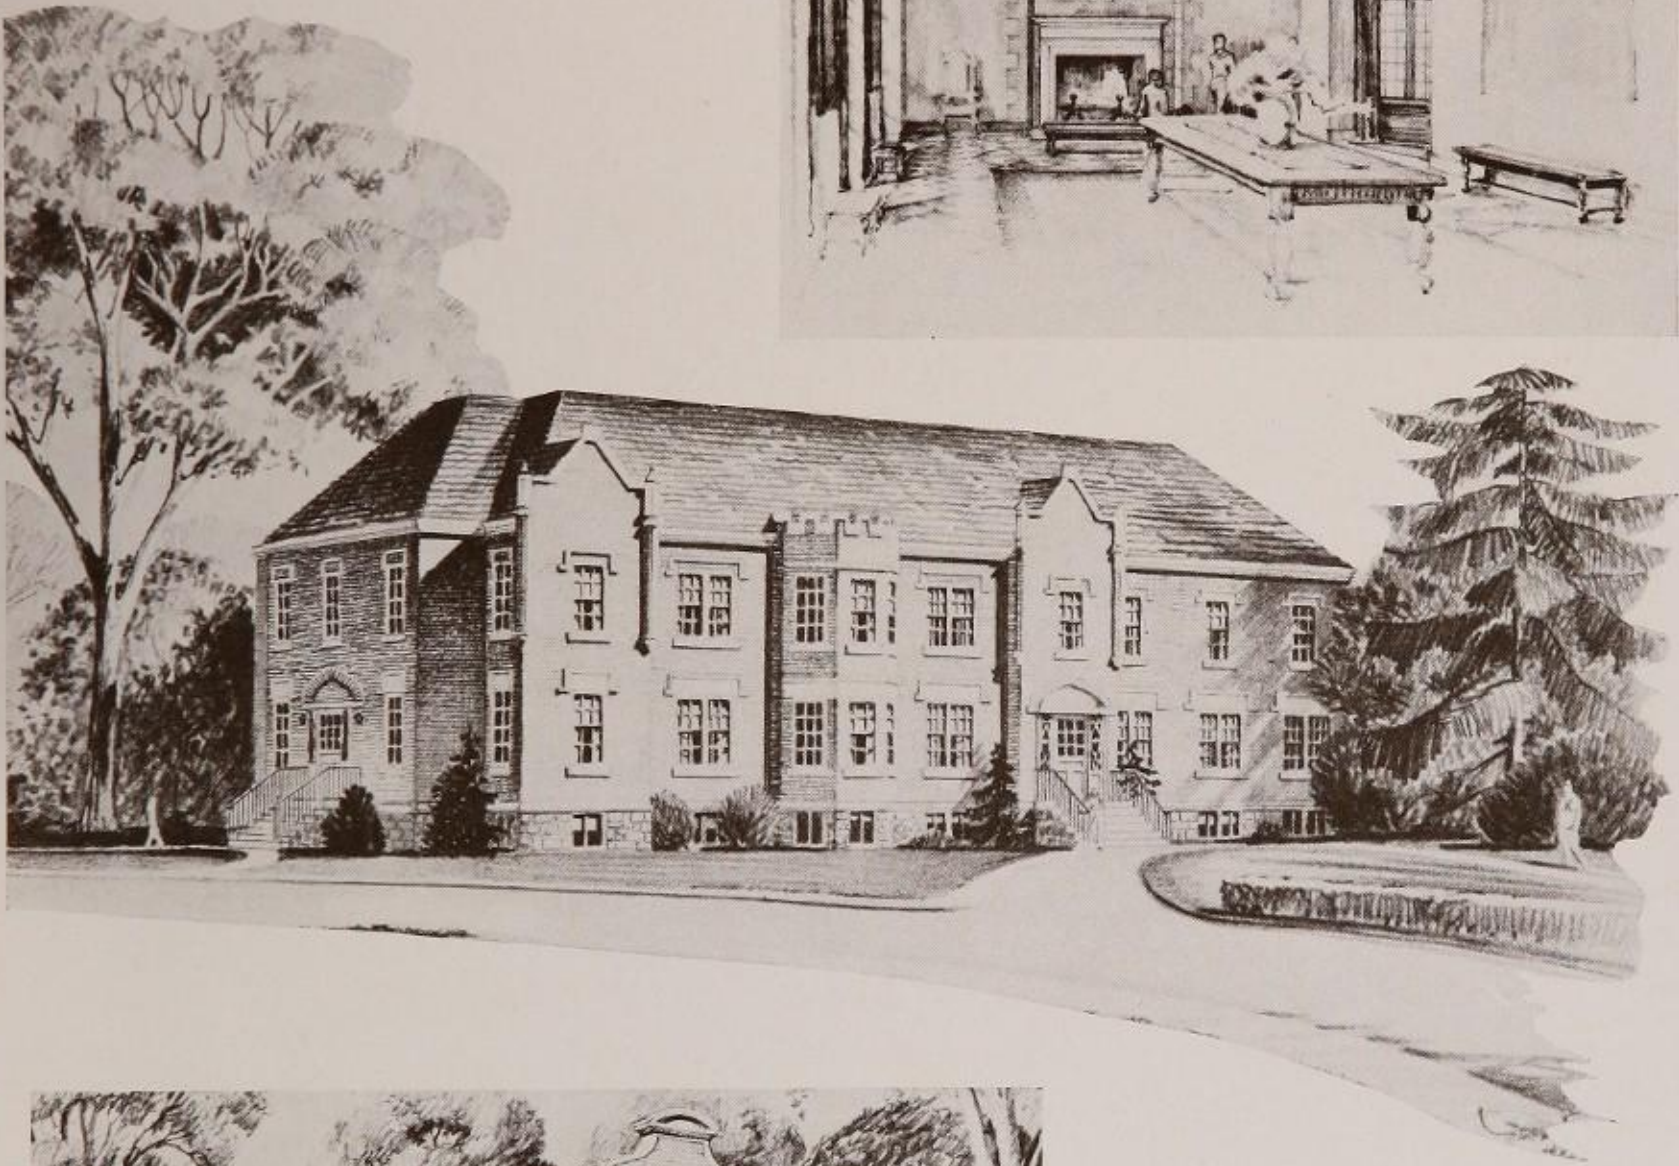

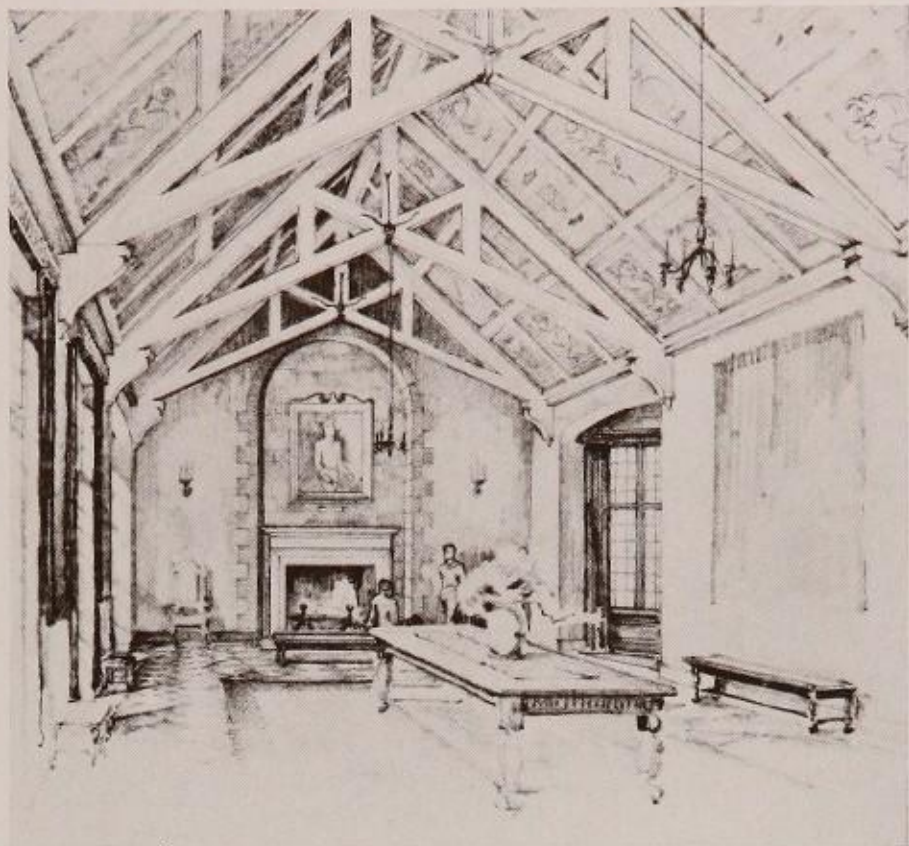

Ground breaking ceremonies for the Beason Memorial Hall shown here took place early in October. Left to right are: Mr. Ross Beason, B. B. Culver, Chairman of the Board of Directors; B. B. Culver, Jr., Treasurer of the Board; Mrs. Beason, Jens Frederick Larsen, Architect, (kneeling); Cadet H. C. Christians; E. R. Culver, Jr., Chairman of the Board; and Col. W. E. Gregory.

THE YEAR MARKED THE BEGINNING OF CULVER'S LONG AWAITED building program. In the rear of Argonne and C.T. began to grow the Beason Memorial Hall, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Beason in memory of their son, former cadet Ross Beason, Jr., who died in the war. For the First Class it meant a new clubroom and an ideal place for relaxation and recreation; for the rest of the corps it was something to look forward to. Other buildings were also in the process of erection; the Naval School Building was scheduled for completion by late June; and the Infirmary, by its new extension, was to become a modern health center. . . . Yes, it was a year of construction.

ON THESE PAGES are presented, for your recollection, the architectural sketches and pictures of the beginning of the construction of the buildings, now a part of the school.

JUST A GUIDE TO THE PICTURES: In the upper right corner is the great hall of the Beason Memorial. Here First Classmen will relax and smoke, have bull sessions, or just enjoy the fire on winter nights. Center is the architectural perspective of the much needed Health Center, which spaciouly provides for the most modern equipment from the ground floor up. Over left is the architects' conception of the completed Ross Beason, Jr., Memorial Hall.

COMINGS AND GOINGS FIGURED IN THE biggest of the big events all through the year. There was September and that first week, a mixture of plebes and varsity football, and that thought: only 97 days 'til Christmas . . . Remember the mad scramble for Homecoming decorations and the wind that blew them down? Those bull sessions with the Alumni and the first dance of the year? . . . On Armistice Day it was cold and cloudy as we stood listening to the speeches and the roar of the cannon. But before we knew it—Thanksgiving, and hundreds of beautiful women were crowding the campus. Mornings and afternoons were spent presenting military reviews, and the show went off smoothly to the crowd's applause. Finally, over to the Inn for corsages . . . then to the dance. Smooth lines, smooth talk, a tap on the shoulder, a stop at the punch bowl . . . Days passed, and the question on the campus was: "How are you going Home?" There were candles in the mess hall, fire crackers in ranks, carollers in the night, and Christmas had arrived . . . Home, then, all too quickly, back to school; but it was a wonderful feeling to look forward to Spring vacation—the first in many years. Yet with exams we forgot all that, studied hard, and perhaps prayed a little. Exams came and went. There was the Infantry Dance and the chance blind dates. Soon we were scurrying home for our vacation break. When we returned it wasn't that old routine, for Spring fever had caught us: the Easter and Mounted Service Dances, those recreation periods out-of-doors, loafing in the bird sanctuary—Memorial Day, Government Inspection—all passed quickly by . . . at last . . . Commencement days.

Traditional Christmas dinner, complete with tree and turkey . . . carols by the Band . . .

winter of work . . . a hurried journey . . . one brief, crowded week of fun and relaxation.

COMMENCEMENT, culmination of a year . . .

intermingled feelings of sorrow, joy . . . final dance, final formation . . . "then—the old Iron Gate."

PLACES AND PEOPLE WERE AN IMPORTANT PART of what we knew as Culver. We hope you haven't forgotten those times spent with your friends at the Shack, and those mad dashes to the canteen and clubroom between classes; the sundial where you spent a little or, in some cases, most of your time walking summaries. And of course you'll never forget those days of pushing and shoving at the Q.M. for one little tube of toothpaste . . .

Then who could forget the tenth of February when that long-awaited mid-year "make" order arrived, and the huge crowd began pouring in and out of the tailor shop bright and early the following morning, sporting a gleaming new set of chevrons? . . . At the operator each night during tattoo, Esther and Inez were swamped with long and short distant calls to points in and out of the country. You always came out of the barber shop without. And after those long trudges to the infirmary, you never were put A.D. "Stand naturally" were the directions, but you always strained when you were before the posture camera. One place you didn't need to be reminded to visit was the girl who issued allowances. After standing in line for a few minutes, you got to the window only to hear those fatal words, "Sorry, but you're overdrawn." . . . A sight that was familiar to all of us was the group of little green tables being pulled out of some unknown storage hole to be used for those mid-term exams. . . . There were many other places—but all part of the Culver that you knew so well, knew so well—that even time has failed to remove from your patterns of thinking and memory.

Fish in the Mess Hall on Fridays meant permits and sandwiches at the shack . . . long waits . . . large crowds.

Q.M. RUSH HOUR lasted from morning until night . . . books and records . . . soap and socks.

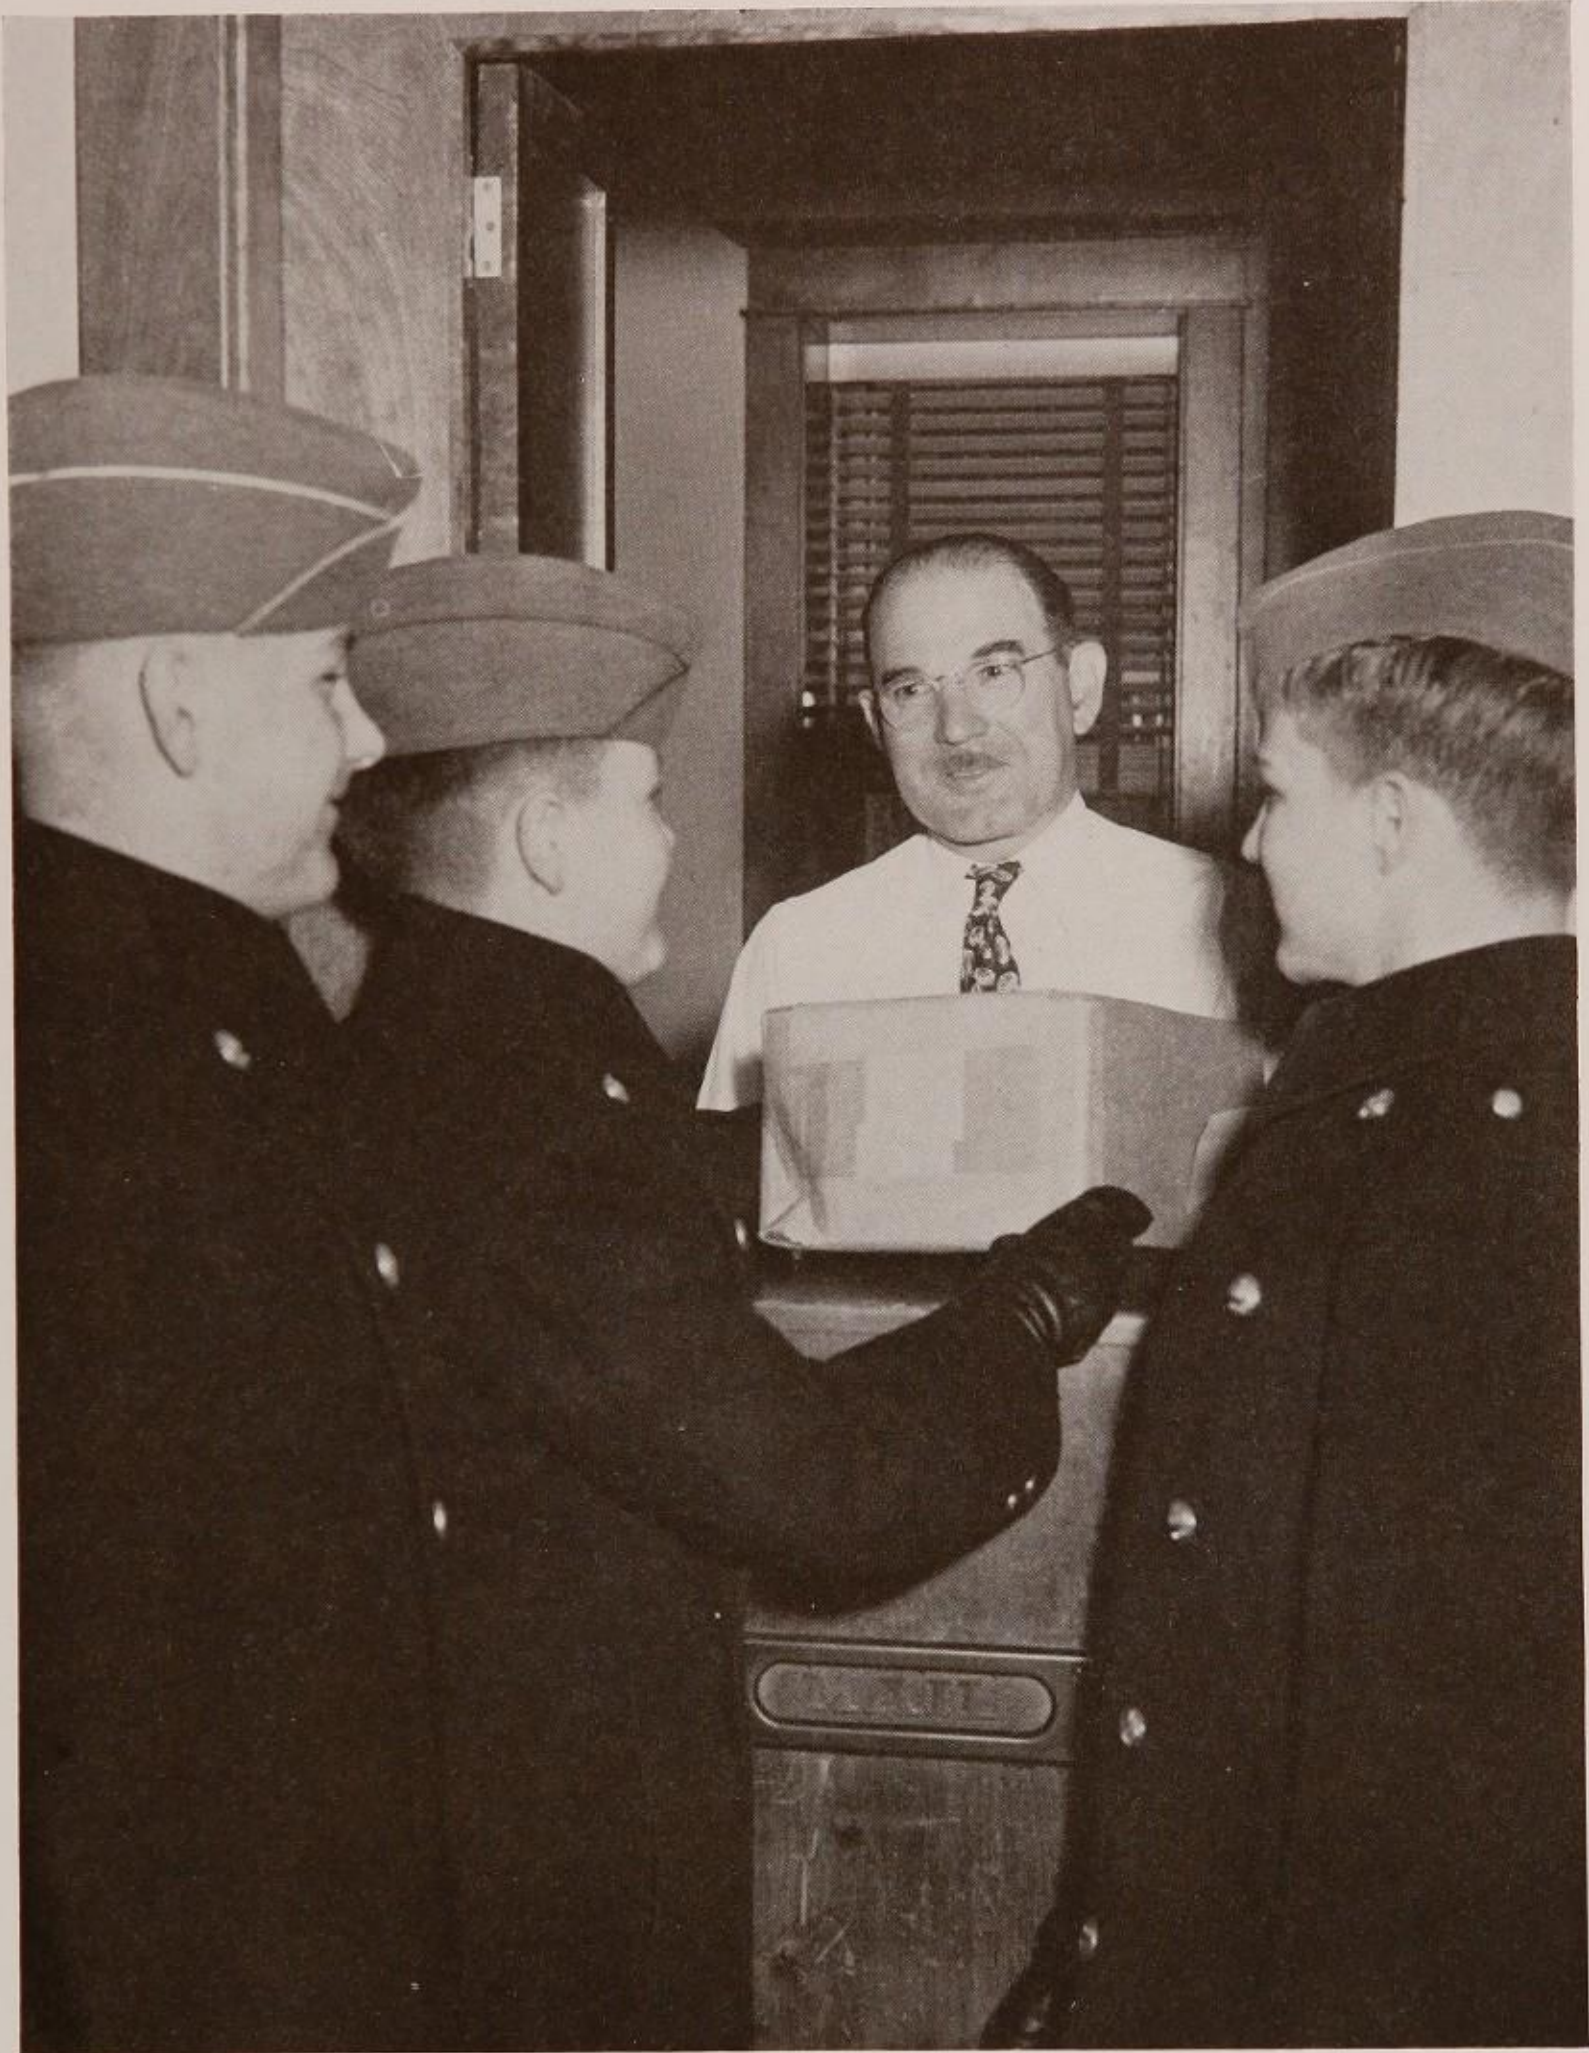

THE CANTEEN was the place for those between-meal and between-class snacks . . . bowling . . . pool.

STRIPES . . . CHEVRONS . . . STRIPES . . . AND MORE

stripes, chevrons, honor bars. They played an important part in your life at school. Perhaps the most unique set of stripes was—no stripes at all. Can you remember when you were a plebe? You know, closing windows, making calls, shining shoes, brushing coats, double-timing up steps, filling glasses, turning square corners, addressing hundreds of “Misters”. Then, power! That one stripe entitled you to put your arms on the table at mess, a respected “Sir” from the plebes, a shot at those coveted chevrons, and an elevated feeling of importance. Giving up your desserts at D.R.C. was part of the job of mail orderly. With the addition of another stripe you became all elbows at mess, enjoyed cream on your cereal, spent more time demanding respect, were initiated into the clubroom, bridge corner, and smoking ring. . . . But the white stripe meant the most of all. At long last you had reached the zenith on the campus. And perhaps along with that distinction you had become an officer, so that your stripes were complete. You gained privileges galore—the First Class garden, books, clubroom, and that one privilege which you are wearing on your finger now—your First Class ring. . . . If you were one of the “brain boys” or a “slaver” you had those wonderful Full Firsts . . . Of course you can not forget having to sit down and hurriedly dash off those last few First Class pictures for Joe, Bill, and John. Then that long-awaited day arrived, and the Iron Gate became a reality—then memory, for some one-hundred seventy of us.

The most packages went to plebes . . . a trip to Rex . . . old men on lookout for food . . . no food.

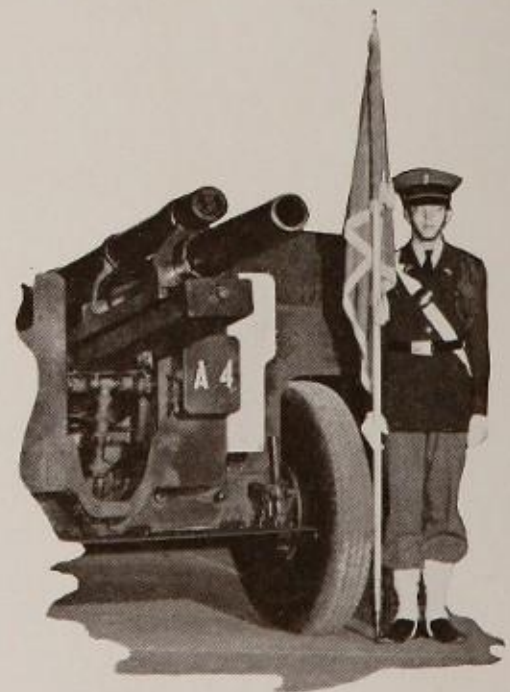

YEARLINGS AND TWO-STRIPERS on the rifle range . . . aim . . . squeeze and fire . . . miss.

FIRST CLASSMEN and bridge were synonymous . . . kibitzers . . . finesse . . . down one.

COMPANIES, BATTERIES, TROOPS . . . THOSE TERMS WHICH comprised the official make-up of the Corps. Yet behind those names was the organization which you knew inside and out as your own. Run by your counsellor and tactical officer, your company was one of the best outfits in the regiment. You and the 70 other men were out to reap laurels for its honor, and you went after the awards with fight and spirit. Austin Trophy, Athletic Plaque, Academic Bowl—all were aimed for and eventually won. . . . But life in the companies was not all work. There was short-sheeting beds; setting traps for the window boy; answering report line; harassing the call boy; and a host of other small incidents which contributed to that big, overall picture. . . . It seemed as if the company marched a great deal, doesn't it? To the mess hall and back, to drill, to chapel, to assemblies. And one day worth remembering was Friday the thirteenth of February, for that was when the entire campus was frozen under a sheet of ice. Marching into the mess hall was finally accomplished on all fours, and even then you were none too steady . . . On the athletic field company spirit and teamwork flourished. All through the year there were different games—Battery against Troop, Band against D. But in studies the outfit also stuck together, especially during final exams. . . . Turn the pages and read of your company and your achievements. Get a glimpse of your friends, and look at the record of your years on the Culver campus.

The beginning of the cadet year was well marked by "A's" winning of the Regimental Soccer Championship. Later you recall the company wrestling title was in their possession, too. With a considerable number of cadet officers, and many Q.P. stars besides, "A" got off to a fine start. Remember, because of illness, Colonel Moore was forced to leave "A" in the middle of the year, and Major Roberts took the vacant position of counselor. . . . As outside diversions there were the square dances and several company picnics at which members of "A" got together for some additional good times. The company was also well represented in varsity athletics, in which they had Harv Hunt as wrestling captain, and Jack Walters as baseball captain. . . . No one from "A" could possibly forget the trifling, weight-lifting, and friendships which filled the year. One Friday night minstrels were again revived with an old time show—blackface and all.

A group of 30 new plebes and a new counselor were being broken in by "B", while Coach Gollnick was developing a Co-Regimental Championship football team from which four players were ultimately selected for all-company honors. Of course, you remember "John" Edgell's determination to make three-minute bell inspections whether fully dressed or not, and the head cheerleader, Mike Brooks, who sported his wrestling captain's star on his sweater, while leading cheers for the corps of cadets who, usually enjoyed yelling the Oo-Wa-Wa cheer more than the old stand-bys. . . . As the driving force behind the Roll Call, Mart Tahse was forever busy, and you will recall that Bill Lusher was elected captain of the Cross-Country team and Jerry Rabushka captain sharpshooter. Think also of how much experience most of the second classmen obtained because of the fact that "B" was without a first sergeant all during the first semester.

THE cadets in South, who controlled the two upper floors of the barracks, were led largely by two-stripe officers during the first half of the year. In addition, however, they boasted of producing the Regimental Commander. Their counselor, Colonel Johnson, took charge at drill as well as in barracks, and the members of "C" had little excuse to go without haircuts, since the barber shop occupied a part of their barracks. . . . Living with some seventy other men in the company brought with it some humorous situations, such as the company's captain losing his contact lenses and wandering around in a fog until they could be recovered by his roommate. There was always somebody mumbling something about getting up at the three-minute bell in the mornings. Of course, there were good company teams and many varsity lettermen, among whom was Bob Lowry, who captained the golf team. . . . "C" was in the race all the way.

Through the two upper floors of C. T. the members of "Fightin' D" pursued a rather satisfied life, while living up to the many traditions and standards of preceding years. As a former member of this company, you surely remember the popularity of Colonel Donnelly, Colonel Weller and Major McMinn of the counseling staff. The members of "D" always seemed to be among the "best dressed" of Culver, if that term could be applied to the uniformed cadets. Certainly you recall the usually close friendships which sprang up throughout the company during the year. . . . Besides a considerable number of individual scholars, photographers, triflers, and weight-lifters, "D" prided itself in achieving the Co-Regimental Championship title in football, after fighting through an exciting season. On the varsity Fitch Walmer held the honored position of captain, as did Joe McVickers on the golf team. "Fightin' D" did live up to its title.

The close ties between all members of the musician's company were all-important. From the many extra performances given by the Band, its members spent more time together than did members of other companies. . . . Even after furnishing music for innumerable assemblies, athletic events, dances, and chapel services, the Band men were rewarded by only a few privileges—such as no tours of guard duty. While all other branches of the corps had branch training, the Band got its only practices in. . . . Besides the additional work required of the Band members, each did his best to cheer or play in athletic events. The Band was represented in greater numbers on the Varsity football team than any other organization. . . . Among its outside achievements was the winning of decorations at Homecoming, when the “Band Wagon” won honors. Later in the year the Band contributed to the success of the Christmas vesper service.

Because there were few mounted cavalry units left in the country, Culver was doubly proud of the Black Horse Troop on its fiftieth anniversary. . . . For its part, the Troop rightfully earned its share of honor for the 1947-48 term; as proof of this, it had several gold and silver A winners plus a group of company teams that gave plenty of competition to the rest of the corps. . . . Of course, there were ups and downs. Firecrackers after taps may have irked some persons, but what's a bunch of good fellows without a little mischief? The Troop made a big hit at Homecoming with outdoor movies and an electric sign as proof of their ingenuity. . . . Through everything the troopers were always accompanied, helped, or hindered by one of the several faculty members connected with their organization. . . . Two weeks after Spring vacation, the Troop had its heyday with its dance, and the colorful weekend was a success.

Besides a good representation in company athletics and in academics, the "Troop" produced the editor-in-chief of the Quill and the Vedette. From its ranks came Rog Johnson, captain of the varsity Basketball team; Bill Rooke, captain of the swimming team, and Floyd Ransom, captain of the polo team. The Troopers were also active in rough riding and made up a skilled jumping team, which performed expertly at the Thanksgiving exercises. . . . The officers which ran the Troop, you will recall, were determined to run the organization efficiently, and in the best possible manner they kept the morale of the Troop high. Two of the last class of "four-strippers" belonged to the North and East Barrack gang, and with their block of four yellow stripes they showed the corps a last glimpse of an ex-fifth classman. The esprit of Culver's mounted service was maintained at its traditional high level throughout the year.

The men of old Main really upheld the honor of the Culver Battery for 1947-48. Active in all the goings on around the campus, the Battery contributed many scholars, athletes, and all-round good fellows to the corps of cadets. . . . The hard hitting football team made itself known on the company gridirons before winter closed in. Wrestling, basketball, and swimming soon followed in which the Battery was well respected by all opponents, and in swimming they splashed their way to a well earned victory. . . . The cross cannoneers made an all time high for many years in the earning of reading privileges. More proof of their genius came at Homecoming, when they decorated their barrack with an elaborate electric sign and life size silhouettes of the Battery "big boys," not to mention the array of crepe paper streamers which added greatly to Homecoming festivities. Ten out of the twenty-four members of cum laude were Batterymen.

The Battery took a week-end off in the fall for a trip out to Winamac park. Starting on Saturday morning, they rode their trucks out to the park, towing guns behind. After an active day, an evening of singing was spent around a fire just before returning to the Academy. . . . There was excellent Battery participation in all varsity sports. O'Fallon, the co-captain of the rifle team, and Wright, the captain of the varsity crew, were both from the Battery. Many top positions on other teams belonged to the boys from Main, too. . . . One of the lighter moments in Battery life occurred once when a bat was discovered flying around Plebe Hall after taps. This was quickly remedied, though, and peace was restored. . . . Main Barrack was in the hands of a top notch lot of officers and fine counselors, who certainly kept the Battery on its toes.

AS YOU LOOK BACK, THE YEAR '47-'48 SEEMS LIKE A dream . . . a dramatic dream, in which you played a part for 240 days. Some of you were veteran performers, having assumed your role as early as the fall of 1944, while others had taken over your part a year or two later. Now that you think of it, that dramatic performance had been a continuous one, extending back more than five decades to September 23, 1894—in fact, yours was the 54th season. Throughout the years there were some swell troupers in the cast; but just as in any other big production, credit for the successful and continuous performance should rightfully go to the scores of staff members, who in their several roles, coached and directed the activities. Throughout its history Culver was fortunate in having had outstanding directors, and your final year was no exception. Colonel Gregory as superintendent was head director and producer. He first appeared on the Culver stage in 1924 and since then has worked through various administrative roles. In 1939 he became Culver's fifth superintendent. Colonel Gregory was never too busy for a friendly chat with cadets. Col. Elliott was the executive officer. . . . Colonel McKinney was the prompter who had charge of correcting the fouled-up lines . . . Colonel Kellam secured future roles for graduating actors. . . . Colonel Henderson secured plebes to act as apprentices for the veterans . . . Colonel Mather, as Assistant to the Superintendent, helped cast in various parts . . . Can you recall others?

Colonel W. E. Gregory—Superintendent

Associated with the Superintendent in carrying out the program of The Culver Educational Foundation was a staff of some seventy instructors. You were intimately acquainted with many faculty members and here your record mentions their leadership and service.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS—First row, left to right: E. C. McDonald, Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, B. B. Culver, E. R. Culver, Jr., L. J. Brady, and W. A. Brooks. Second row: Col. C. C. Chambers, H. H. Culver, Col. W. E. Gregory, B. B. Culver, Jr., Maj. R. H. Fleet, Col. J. S. Fleet and E. R. Culver, III.

IN A REFLECTIVE MOOD, let your thoughts now turn to the founder, Henry Harrison Culver, and his wholesome ideals for the school; and second, to his sons, Bertram B. and Edwin R. Culver, and other relatives who contributed liberally of their time, talents, and finances, to carry out the aspirations of the founder. The generous action of Mr. Culver's heirs in transferring the assets of the school to the Culver Educational Foundation was most significant. Since 1932, the Foundation, capably represented by men of broad experience, has been effectively furthering the development of the Academy. Few of you realized the far-reaching importance at the time, but the Board initiated its building program in October, 1947. Chairman was Bertram B. Culver and President of the Board was Edwin R. Culver, Jr., class of 1913. Other officers included: Edwin C. McDonald, class of 1915, W. A. Brooks, class of 1900, and Laban J. Brady, class of 1909, vice-presidents; Bertram B. Culver, Jr., class of 1928, treasurer; Col. C. C. Chambers, class of 1908, secretary; Henry Harrison Culver, class of 1935 assistant treasurer, and Edwin R. Culver, III, class of 1938, assistant secretary; President Emeritus was Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat. Other members of the Board include: Col. W. E. Gregory, superintendent; Col. J. S. Fleet, class of 1898; and Maj. Reuben H. Fleet, class of 1906, ex-officio member.

ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE—The responsibility of supervising the over-all program rested with the Superintendent and his committee pictured here in one of their frequent meetings left to right: Col. L. R. Kellam, Col. A. R. Elliott, Col. C. F. McKinney, Col. J. W. Henderson, and Col. C. C. Mather.

THE FACULTY

A few candid glimpses of the faculty in and out of the classroom . . . Don't let these costumes fool you in the first picture. It's Captain Smith and Major Walaitis having a little fun at a faculty party . . . Major Stone and Major Jackson . . . "Is that hat on right?" . . . And over right, Captain Patch looks up from his grade book.

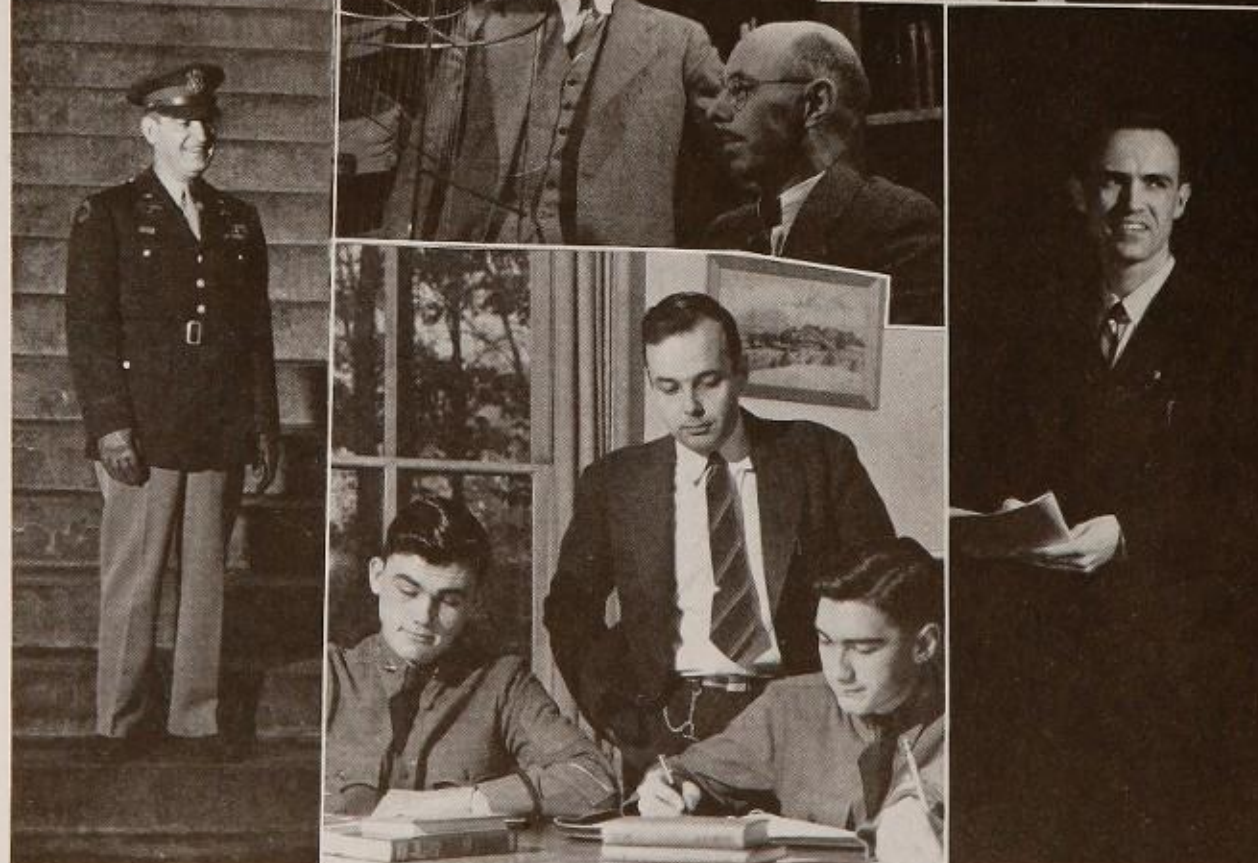

AT WORK

"Oh, no! It won't explode!" Doc Johnson assures his class . . . "Them's teeth," so it must be Doctor Leonard . . . Just below, X equals Colonel Shanks and Y equals Colonel Obenauf . . . And over right is Mr. Sayre, a familiar figure, both in the History department and on his bike.

AND PLAY

Down the steps comes Colonel Lee Gerow, who became a part of the family of staff members early in January when he took over the post as P.M.S. and T. . . . Captain Harris appears more composed here than do his students, cadets Dortch and Azcarraga. Maybe it's because he isn't taking his own test . . . With a glimmer in his eye, Mr. Estey says, "The next teaser is . . ."

INFORMAL

Over right, Colonel Davis—he didn't make the French language, but he taught it . . . Colonel Bishop and Major McMinn, debating or pondering whether the final history exam is hard enough . . . Have you ever heard of Coe College? If not, Colonel Kellam, who seems to be in a jovial mood here, could give you all the details.

CANDID SHOTS

"Yeah! it was a tough game, but we won." Under the mud we find Major Walaitis, Captain Jock Sutherland and Colonel Stinchcomb. . . . Just below, enjoying an intermission snack, are Major Maull, Mrs. Rust, Major Rust and Mrs. Maull . . . Three jolly officers, Colonel McKinney, Colonel Whitney and Major Stephenson. Just below is Major Hodgkin, veteran comma nimrod.

POSES

Shoveling a path in the snow, Colonel Henderson pauses here long enough to have his picture snapped . . . Upon Colonel Leland's shoulders rested the responsibility of finding out whether you were a decile, whatever that is . . . Without the help of Major Myers, librarian, we would never have found our C.Q. novels.

AT EASE

Miss Romig, secretary to the Commandant, remembered for E.D., summary, leaves and a pleasant smile . . . And here is Inez with three anxious customers, cadets McMillan, McLure, and Mickey Moore. It was Inez and Miss Stahl who were the connecting link between you and yours, if you had the green stuff.

WITH MEMBERS

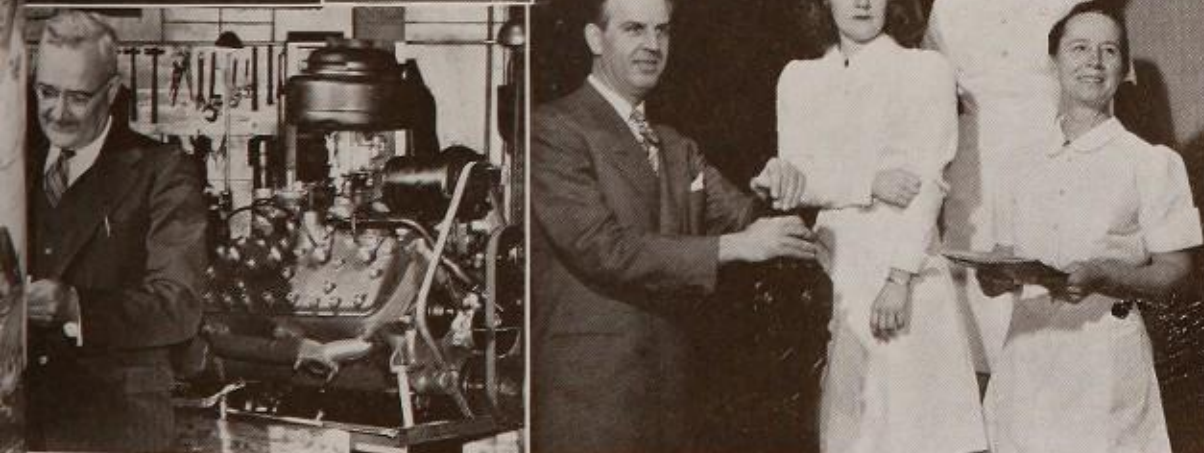

Miss Brown, efficient and always courteous, pictured here sympathizing with a rejected and dejected college applicant . . . A familiar and not-soon-to-be-forgotten place was the Barber Shop where Neal and Rusty held forth. Cadets Froney and Pearlman are two respective victims here.

ON THE STAFF

Mr. Scott seems to be a bit serious here. Perhaps it's the letter which Rex has just handed to him . . . Miss Shetterly and Chef John Kowatch and his assistants carving the turkeys for Thanksgiving dinner . . . Lower left is Mr. Hoffmeister, who as steward did an excellent job of feeding 642 cadets.

LEISURE MOMENTS

Mr. Hewes and Mr. Henning, discussing their respective problems of budget and purchasing . . . George Williams, cashier, hands over the coveted ring to cadet Tellep. It was from Mr. Williams that we received the "you are overdrawn" slips . . . Nothing candid about this posed picture of the Tailor Shop gang . . . "Ah, another basket or touchdown for us," gloats Coach Russ Oliver.

FAMILIAR FACES

AND PLACES

Major Harper and one of the many new motors which were added to the laboratory during the year . . . In this corner is the Hospital staff—Dr. Baker, Miss Bauer, Miss Asher, and Miss Bailey.

TOMBSTONE FORMATION EARLY IN the fall marked the beginning of a routine which was to last all year. It began at eight o'clock with, "Section—Ten shun!" and ended at taps with, "Good night." In a lot of instances classwork extended beyond C.Q. into late lights, and numerous times you had to start classes earlier than usual—around five o'clock—when it was necessary to set the alarm and cram for those English exams. . . . And woe the day when you failed to do your assignment. If your alibi wasn't valid, it meant you would spend your recreation period poring over a dull book in E.D. study hall; and to add to the trouble, your counselor would call you down later in the day and ask for an explanation of the pink slip in History, Math, or German. If pink slips became too numerous and Q.P.'s too few, night study hall was substituted for the C.Q. in your room. . . . Each grading period saw the beginning of new strides toward individual goals. For some First Classmen it was an attempt to find more time for the last drag on that cigarette between classes; for the plebes it was an effort to better hide their shoe-shining during vacant classes; for everyone it meant a determination to get his instructors to say more complimentary remarks on his comment sheet. . . . And then there were the many small incidents which added to the overall view—reading Wordsworth for the first time . . . taking college board exams . . . receiving your first silver or gold A.

Remember seven minutes between classes . . . a quick dash to the canteen or the Q.M. . . . then back to the books.

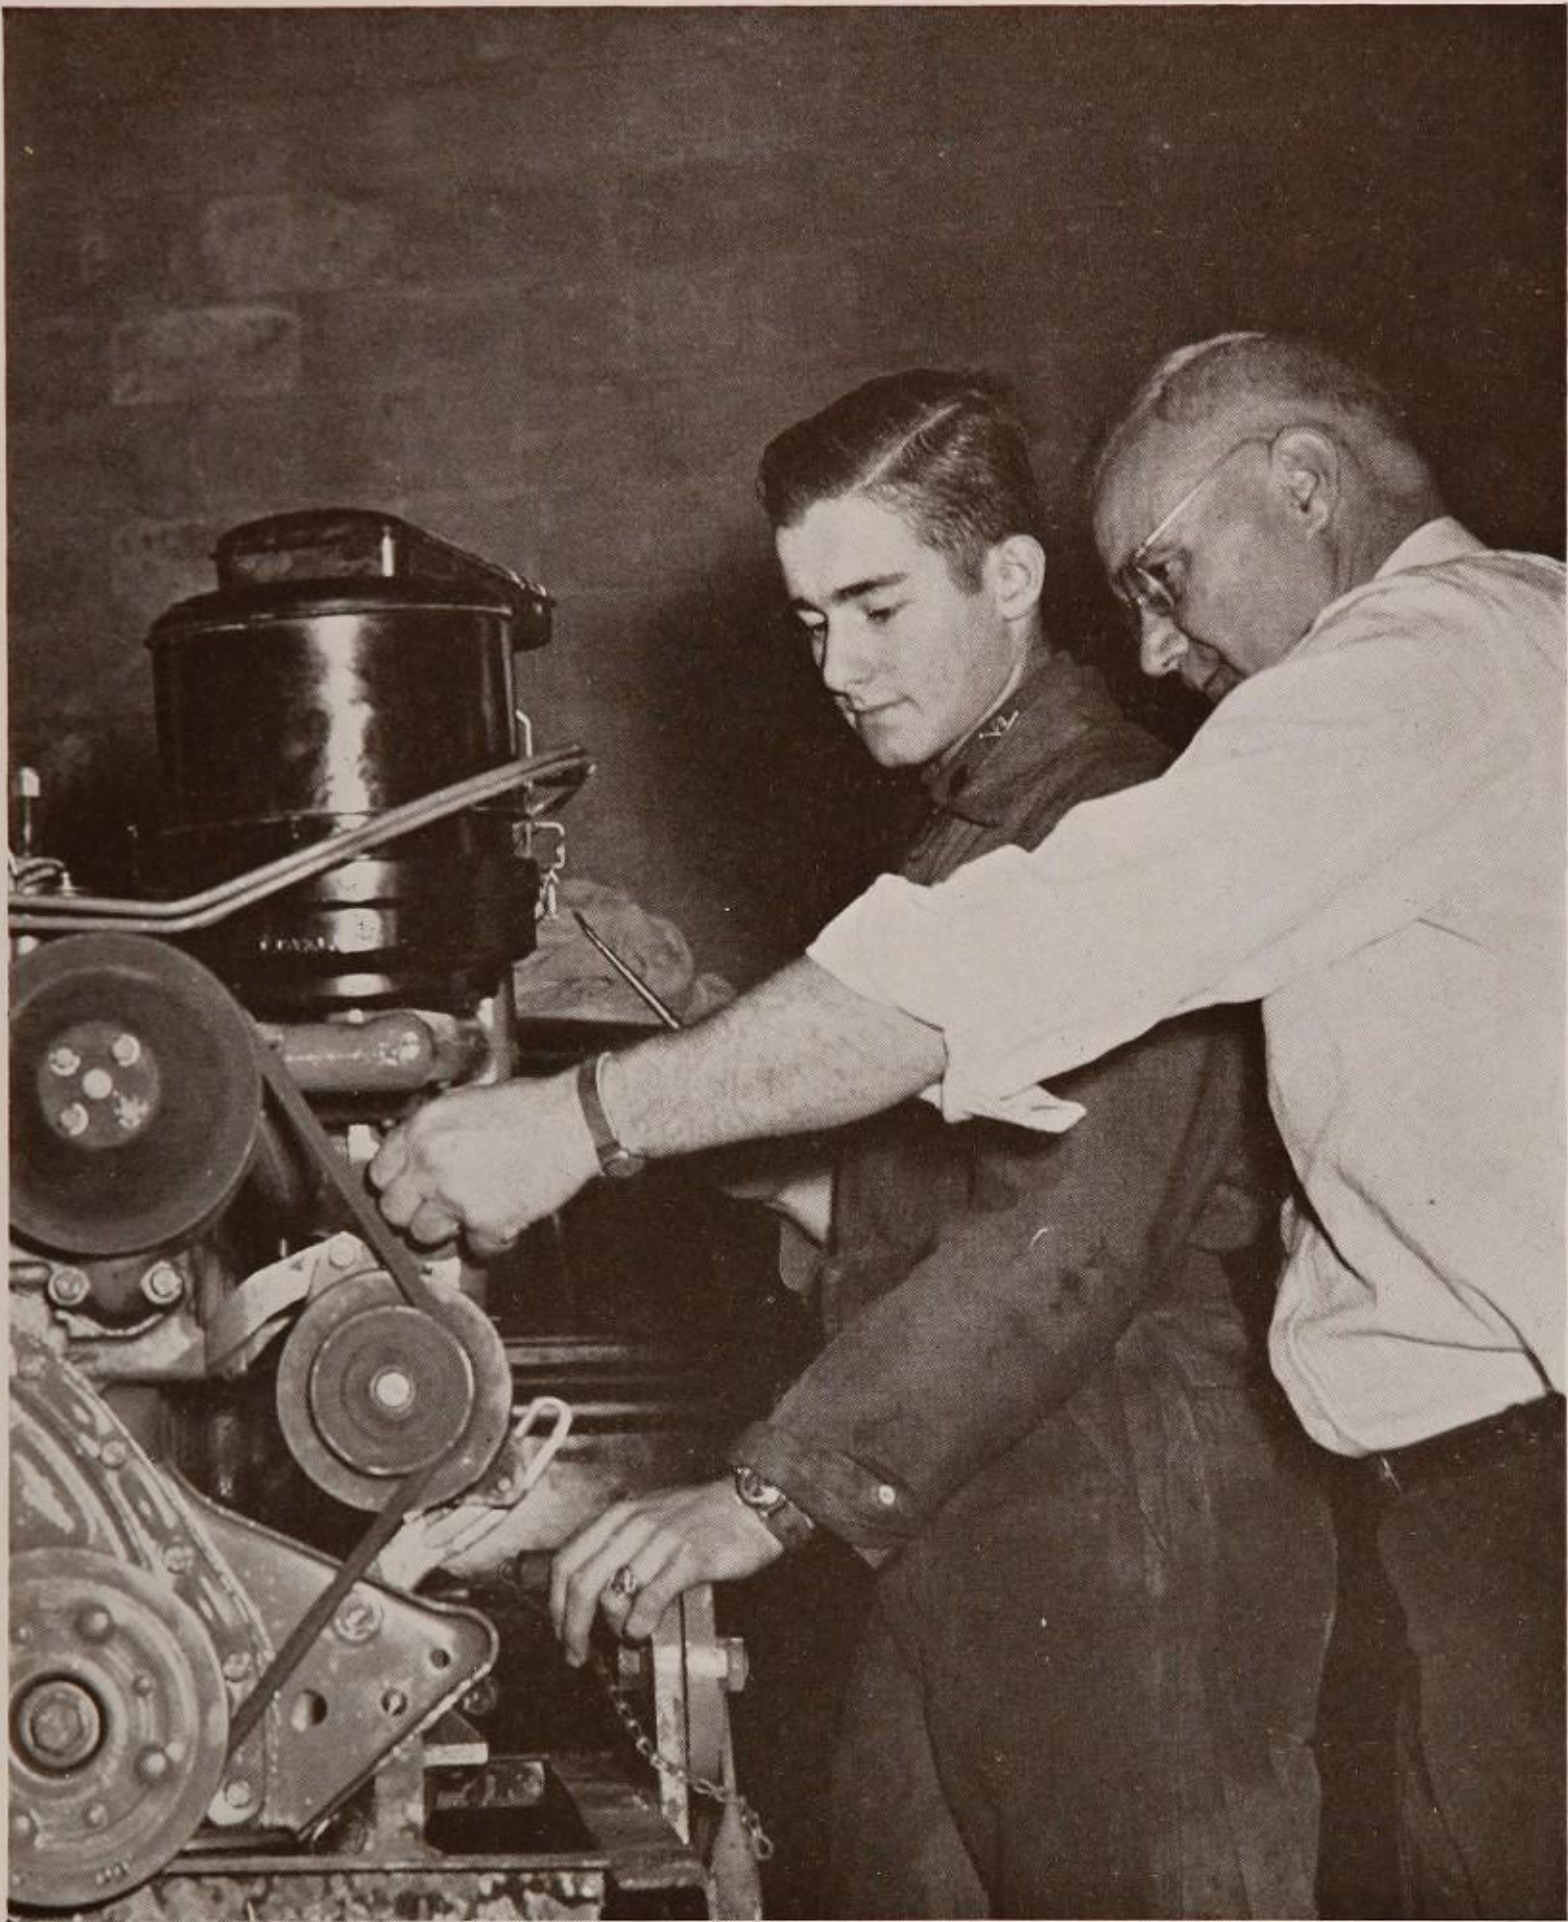

"CAESAR" TAUGHT CICERO—the course, that is. Capt. Roos's technique of assuring himself no ponies were galloping around . . . passive periphrastics . . . Gauls and Gallic War . . . Virgil et cetera

ENGLISH POETS AND AUTHORS seemed to be—The center of interest each day for one C.P. . . .
Accelerated classes, books, and tests—Instructors' quips, cadets' "just playful" jests.

PHYSICS LAB, and getting a "charge" out of that static electric machine . . . four flights of stairs to the laboratories . . . experiments that didn't work . . . tests that didn't raise your average.

THE MOTORS COURSE . . . where Major Harper blended theory with experiment to produce learning . . . remember the long walks to the Armory . . . the engines, valves, fans . . . quick jaunts to test brakes.

SCULPTURING AND HEAD STUDY were both taught and studied at the art studio by Mr. Williams . . . painting, lettering . . . grinding lenses . . . observing stars and planets through the telescope.

THE CHAPTER ROOM, a cigarette, and the easiest way on the campus to study . . . dimly lit atmosphere . . . cathedral silence . . . wisps of white smoke curling lazily upward in the yellow lamp light.

IT WAS THE CLASSROOM where you produced the fruits of your academic labors. Random glimpses show how it was done. For example, up left, Colonel Davis has squeezed a bit of French from his students—ah, French ala “Hair” Davis, there was a course for you, sparkling with wit and humor . . . A slightly different approach is evidenced over right showing Capt. Edgell’s English class . . . Down left the illustration depicts Mr. Bundy’s Science class carrying out two-man experiments . . . And over right, Colonel Leland’s Civic class appears serious—maybe they were planning the mock Republican Convention.

CUM LAUDE

THE CULVER CHAPTER OF THE CUM LAUDE SOCIETY extended invitations to fourteen new members at the close of the first semester, and the scholastic honor was extended to ten others before the close of the term. Perhaps if you were one of them, you kept the invitation; if not, here is a fragment of the letter: "It is a pleasure to extend to you an invitation to membership in the Culver Chapter of the Cum Laude Society. This membership will be consummated by your acceptance and, finally, by your initiation at a ceremony to be held as a part of the Commencement Convocation in June . . . Sincerely, G. O. Johnson, president." When June did arrive, grey caps and gowns, solemn music and procession, a hand-shake, a medal—all marked your acceptance.

GOLD A

First row—left to right: H. A. Abshier, D. S. Martin, E. F. Walmer, W. W. Cunningham, W. H. Wright, R. P. Winters, G. K. Rabushka, D. M. Tahse, and M. E. Ellinger. Second row: B. F. Larson, C. E. Greenwood, F. W. Tahse, N. W. Stroup, W. F. Brodnax, R. Arias, C. E. Zeitlin, and J. Roche. Third row: E. C. Henshaw, R. F. Calman, P. B. Guilden, H. C. Hearne, H. D. Harper, C. J. Scholtz, G. F. Steiner, F. R. Guimont, R. C. Simons, and W. L. Clark.

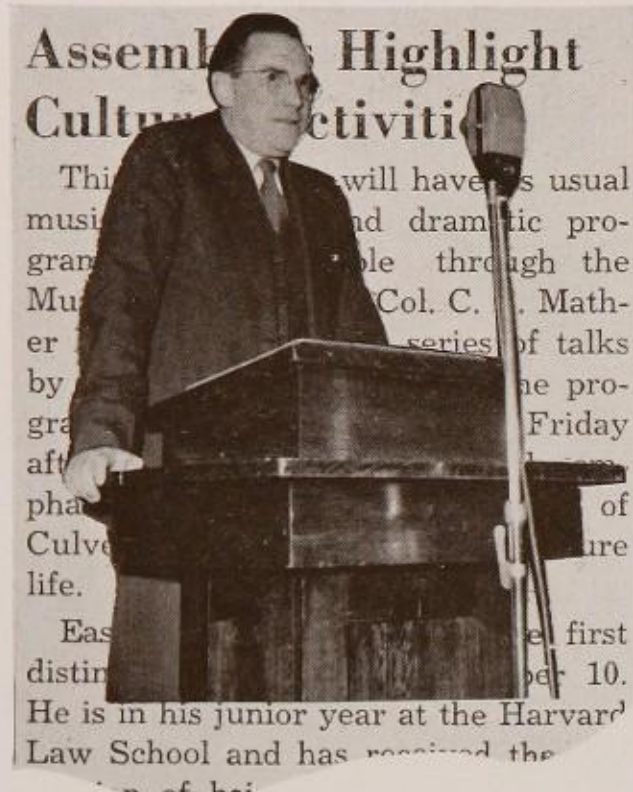

GOLD AND SILVER A's . . . perhaps it was your first, perhaps your fourth. No matter which, the standards were the same: the Gold A meant 22 Q.P.'s, no grade below B+; the Silver A meant 19 Q.P.'s, no grade below a C+. For a figure on the sleeve, many studied and worked—studied hours on end . . . Some succeeded, others missed by a hair.

Front row—left to right: J. M. Dearmin, J. R. Stanton, F. C. Ellis, F. D. Kauffman, R. S. Shelton, W. W. Morrison, W. L. Shepherd, R. L. Melick, F. D. Schurz, A. V. Kurtz, and J. Netick. Second row: E. M. Reese, F. K. Habenicht, F. M. Scott, R. V. Nash, L. L. Taylor, N. N. Bogatinoff, J. K. Fulks, B. J. McGinnis, D. L. Stayman, R. M. Stimson, and B. S. Harrold. Third row: M. D. Moore, J. C. Eeickson, J. P. Raibourn, D. H. Tulley, J. F. Kourmadas, M. Garcia, A. S. Peters, P. S. McKinney, M. J. Shaw, N. A. Moffat, E. R. Blonsky, and F. T. Gay. Fourth row: L. J. Pavlicek, D. J. Slavik, C. F. Stevens, D. R. Webster, A. Ellis, and J. F. Morrison.

MEMORANDUM ORDER NO. 29, THE assembly schedule, had a way of slipping into the daily program. Think of the times you marched to the Rec Building and heard the speakers, some good, some not so good. You heard about a lot of things: a young woman from the World Student Fund described European students; English democracy was Lord Templewood's subject; atom bomb eye-witness Wayne Guthrie vividly pictured tests at Bikini. But perhaps closer to the cadets' points of view than any others were the alumni such as Birkett, Roller, and Hough, who spoke on topics ranging from law to airplanes. Even the faculty was represented when Warner Williams discussed astronomy. Our own home-grown acting held a place of its own, whether it was The Strollers or a play by the Dramatic class. High Tor, What a Night, Hay Fever were only a few. . . . Yet those weren't the only times you got together. Chapel was an important part of every Sunday. It was always pleasant to look forward to the weekly movie, culmination of the week, wondering whether it would bore, cheer, or only interest you. Yes, those were the times you expected, but there were other gatherings you enjoyed. Perhaps it was the Friday night show; the Christmas Vespers with its choir and musical background; the Saturday show in town, packed with cadets. . . .

CLUBS, COMMITTEES, ACTIVITIES . . .

those Friday night meetings during open C.Q. or those hurried gatherings in the private dining room. How you wondered where you would find the time for this activity or that, and then so often have the club end in a bull session. All of the Corps had some pet project. A few enjoyed work on the Quill, the campus literary magazine, which furnished an outlet for the Corps' talent. Some slaved long hours publishing the Vedette, which underwent a radical new change in its layout. Even the editors of this book had to rush to meet those deadlines which always seemed to come too early. Photography was always active, provided the dark room and lockers were always well taken care of. Members of the skeet club reserved Saturday mornings to empty their rifles . . . the jazz band not only played for dances but also entertained you in the mess hall . . . to the Hop Club fell the task of decorating for dances and making the arrangements for girls from other schools. . . . There were the individual dramatics groups of every company. The little theater of A Company gave the famous "Shooting of Dan McGrew", and the mask and wig club of B Company presented their take-off on "Truth or Consequences" with their showing of "Nice Try, Bud." Mr. Edgell never did get all the custard pie off his face. . . . And all those bridge fiends, both in the Second and the First Class, held their annual bridge tourney in the Spring. . . . But no matter which club or organization you belonged to, you got a lot of companionship, satisfaction, and just plain fun. Now why not recall the good times and for old times sake a few of the old faces . . .

"PASS IN REVIEW!"—"NOTICE, SIRs, FIRST CALL for drill has sounded, sirs." Thus in the respective vernacular of the Adjutant and the Call Boy you hark back to that phase of our routine, which was devoted to military activities. Every day of the week there were military activities. But then yours was a military school. You were reminded of it constantly. Nearly every Sunday the staff sergeants pounded in the flags and stakes, the staffs headed their column, and there followed a garrison parade. Once in a while it was dismounted on the oval, but the only occasion which called for no parade was a blessed rainy day. From Thanksgiving to Easter, parades were discontinued, and then the adjutant's call reminded you that Spring was there again. . . . But one moment, Memorial Day, should not be omitted—the hot weather, the reading of the Gold Star men, and the review were something worth remembering . . . Came April and Government Inspection was an important event on the calendar. Classes were suspended for three days, and an entire night was given to preparing your room and your rifle. Brush-up sessions were held in R.O.T.C., but nevertheless, when that inspector asked you the question, it seemed as if you had never taken a single military course . . . But all that was a long time ago, even so, you remember the times, places, and events.

REGIMENTAL STAFF . . . In the center the marching staff—Regimental Commander H. C. Christians; Adjutant, D. S. Martin; Personnel, J. R. Van Keppel; Supply, P. M. Reilly, and Sergeant-Major D. J. Slavik . . . Flanking pictures beginning at the top left and continuing clock-wise: Regimental Infirmary Officer, (B. F. Larson); Athletic, (M. Brook; Posture, (J. P. Hancock); and Mess, (J. S. McVickers). These officers headed the organization of the Corps in your time.⁵

SUNDAY PARADES topped off the main formations of the day—G.I. and Chapel . . . First call sounded after chapel, and each organization took up its individual position . . . a little manual of arms, some last minute instructions, then adjutant's call and "forward, march." From then on, one event followed the other as if in a dream. The battalions came up to the line, dressed right, and the adjutant took his post.

THE BAND sounded off, moved up the field, and returned; next followed the manual of arms. "Officers . . . center . . . march." While the "comish" were marching to the reviewing stand, saluting, and returning, the rest of the battalion remained at attention. Can you still feel the sweat trickling down your back, or feel the mosquito leisurely walking across your nose? At last, "Pass in Review", and another parade ended.

IN THE FALL, yes—from the day you drew your rifle until Thanksgiving—from April through Commencement, drill meant outside work. There were field problems, road marches, riding exercises—in fact nearly all phases of basic military problems and exercises were covered. No matter what the season, R.O.T.C. training literally meant an hour a day of each week. . . .

BUT THEN CAME WINTER, and classroom instruction took the place of outdoor drill. Routine subjects included—map-reading, first aid, law and board, administration. Then added to these were the frequent rifle inspections, scores of P.I.'s and G.I.'s; duties of all types along with meticulous shoe-shining and coat-brushing . . . Drill inside or out was a part of the day. . . .

Battery men on their way to the trucks for an all-day outing.

ORGANIZATIONAL EVENTS—each branch took part in a special activity. The Artillery moved out and went on an all-day expedition to Tippecanoe State Park at Winamac, complete with tents, trucks, and good times. The Troop resumed rough riding, which had been suspended a few years previous, and an exhibition was given at Thanksgiving. As the Roll Call went to press, a number of tentative organizational events were being planned. During plebe week and again in the Spring, your company had a picnic; the Troop played capture the flag on horseback; the Infantry and Artillery were content with baseball—under their own power. The trip to see the classic Notre Dame-Army game (and was it cold) was made by First Classmen out for varsity or company football.

SPECIAL ACTIVITIES . . . at the best the illustrations here are only a suggestion.

. . . Actually it would be a literal impossibility to graphically record all of the organizational "extra-curriculars" of the year . . . Many of the long-to-be-remembered incidents fell outside the calendared festivities. Some were peculiar to the Corps as a whole, others were identified with the battalion or the company . . . To single out any one episode as typical of all might be unfair in presenting this record . . . However, no matter what the incident or activity each contributed to the record of the year.

The chow line at Tippecanoe State Park.

Along the way with the mechanized cavalry.

Through the line for "seconds" was a feature of the company picnic excursions . . . the boys of Company A seem to be doing right well here at the right.

"COME ON MAROON! COME ON, WHITE! COME On, Team—Fight! Fight! Fight!" That was you cheering for the football team 'way back when. Or perhaps your cheer was an Ooo-wa-wa for B Company's basketball team. No matter. Whether a company or varsity sport, at one time or another it occupied virtually everyone's attention. From the initial football practice sessions during the plebe week to the last bell in the regimental boxing matches during Commencement week, you were there. . . . "What are you going out for, plebe?" . . . "Well, sir, I, ah, that is, you see, I'm not—" . . . "How about football?" . . . "I never played football much, sir" . . . "That's O.K. Not many of the other fellows out for company football ever played before, but we sure have a lot of fun. See you this afternoon?" . . . And that's how most of you started. From that beginning, perhaps you ended with a varsity sweater and cap, or maybe you had a few company emblems sewn on your jacket for those regimental championships, or perhaps you just had the satisfaction of knowing that you helped put your team on top. . . . Behind each team was the coach, who taught and inspired that team—such coaches as Russ, Mike, Wally, Jock, Erv, and all the others. You remember them—always there fighting as hard as any team member, offering a word of advice, a pat on the back, or—a kick in the pants . . . No matter how formidable the opponent, the competitive hope born of training and practice, and the desire to win was always the same with all of the regulars, subs, managers, coaches and the fans.

HERE you will find nearly every sport represented. No doubt you are in some of the pictures. The action shots are typical of the season as a whole; the team pictures are presented as a lasting remembrance of the men who worked together for the same common goal—competitive leadership and achievement in their chosen field of athletics.

FOOTBALL . . . The season for the varsity ended Thanksgiving night, when the team was honored at the formal dance. Gridiron awards went to forty players.

Coach Russ Oliver, along with the assistance of Jock Sutherland and John Mars, began to whip the team into shape even before the old men returned. One disadvantage confronted them—only three lettermen were returning, Fitch Walmer (captain), Harv Hunt, and Bill Cunningham. The usual starting line-ups of George Steinbrenner and Jim Beardsley at ends, Bob or Bill Barnes and Dick Cain at tackles, and Fitch Walmer, Jack Walter, Fred Tahse, and Jack Beardsley in the backfield averaged only 169 pounds.

. . . Fitch Walmer led the scoring column with four touchdowns. Half of Culver's fourteen touchdowns were due to passes, and Harry Magruder led in that department, tossing four touchdown aerals. Charlie Ferdon distinguished himself by successfully converting twelve out of 14 attempts . . . Fitch Walmer, Harv Hunt, and Charlie Christians were placed on the All-Conference Team, and Dick Cain was given honorable mention . . .

Varsity letters went to: B. K. Barber, R. M. Barnes, W. M. Barnes, R. S. Barrett, J. R. Beardsley, J. M. Beardsley, R. O. Cain, H. C. Christians, W. W. Cunningham, R. L. Dortch, A. Ellis, C. P. Ferdon, H. Hunt

HIT 'EM—Yeah, and here's a Culver tackler in a crucial race to over-take the opponent's ball carrier, whose interference is right in on the play.

BASKETBALL . . . was the first of the wintertime varsity sports to get underway. Hardwood prospects were indeed bright, as fourteen holdovers from the 1947 squad headed by captain elect Rog Johnson reported to Coaches Russ Oliver and Al Nash early in December. Competing for starting berths, were Johnson, Art Kurtz, Glen Slenker, Dick Ellis, Gene Lewis, Ted Wolfe, Jack and Jim Beardsley, Tom O'Neill, Bliss McCrum, Carl Metzger, Pete McKinney, George Hoster, and a group of newcomers . . .

In mid-December, hardwood fans were enthusiastic as they saw the team punch out a 34-29 victory over Concordia and an impressive 47-30 win over Todd School . . . Fans were particularly pleased with the play of two new men, Jim Shaw and Don Messenger vacation, Culver won a costly 34-33 victory over an Alumni squad—costly, for Rog Johnson was sidelined with a leg injury. The cadet quintet lost the next four games before winning a one-point victory over Park School. Following the climatic loss to Ashland H. S. it was Culver over Elgin, Lake Forest, and St. John's, and then in the tourney, Culver lost to St. John's, 45-39. Park won 38-34 in the final game.

. . . Following Christmas

HARDWOOD DRAMA . . . Graphic evidence that there was never a dull moment throughout the entire season . . . For example, top left—Coaches Russ Oliver and Al Nash—yes, the entire players' bench had their anxious moments during every game . . . up center is a photographic glimpse of that ball-in-the-basket-play which brought cheers from the crowd . . . right, the score board shows the Culver quintet two points behind, and high-scoring Jim Shaw, lets go with one of his over-hand shots . . . down left is pictured a between-half dressing room session . . . lower center—It's up in the air for an Ashland tip-in and a subsequent two-pointer . . . And over right, the hardwood fans seem a bit tense during the St. John's game. They had a right to be for Culver won this nip and tuck contest in the final quarter.

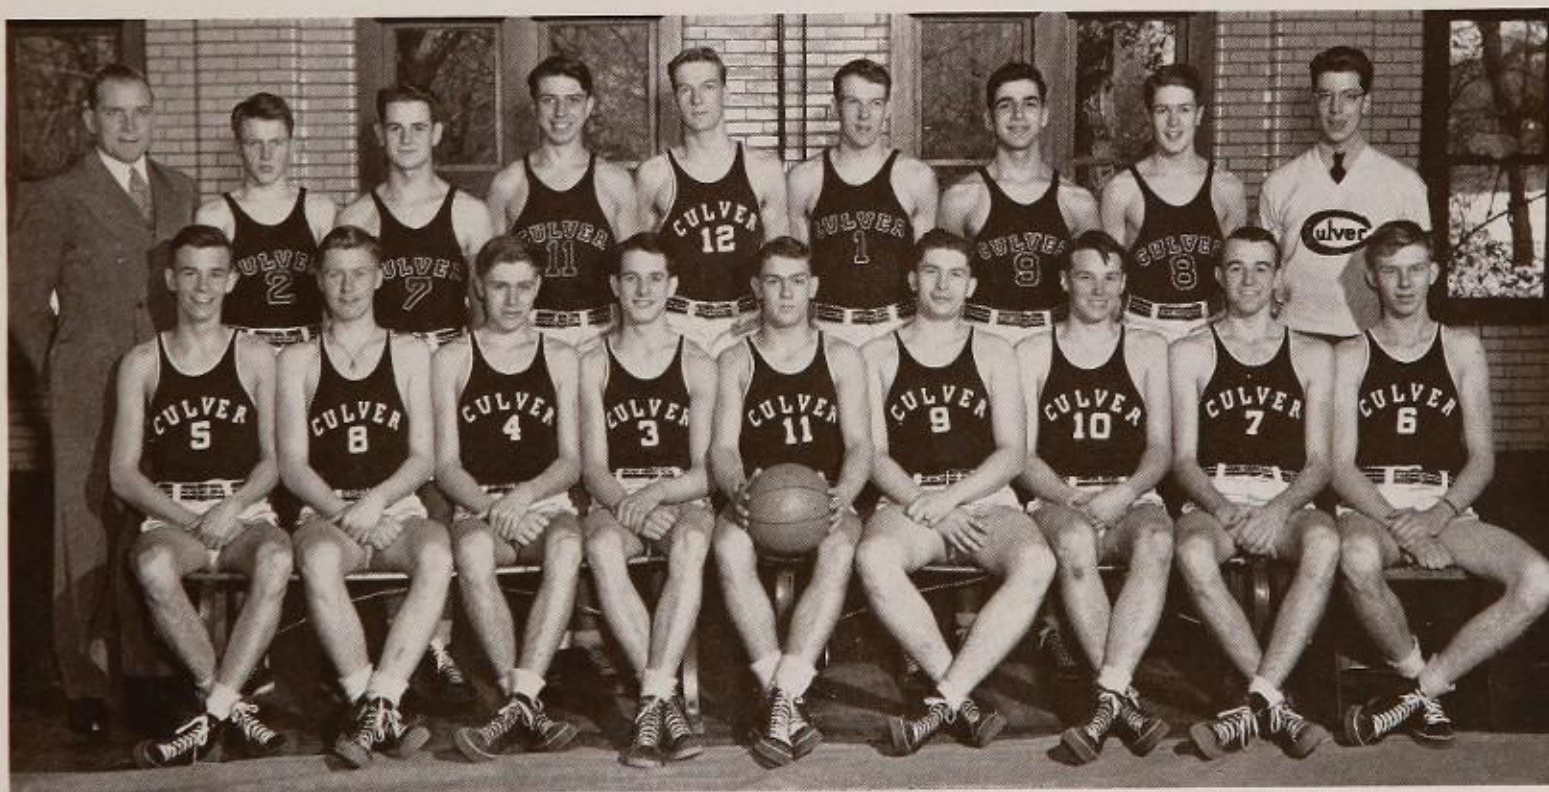

Up in the air for a rebound—and in the '47-'48 style of play, rebounds were vitally important.

BASKETBALL FEVER
 rose to a high pitch during the season. Everywhere the stress was all on offensive action—scoring punch—fast team play You hardwood fans will recall sports writers of the nation's press referred to the tempo as the "fire wagon brand" of basketball Sure, you have lots of memories of a season that was spirited, of a team that had lots of fire, even though the won and lost record on the previous page discloses that the Maroon and White quintet lost several games They were always in there fighting, and you were constantly on the edge of your seat, sometimes standing, sometimes screaming, always responding to the direction of cheerleader Mike Brooks and his cohorts Highpoint of the Culver season came in the colorful Ashland game on Valentine's Day. Unmindful of the fact that they were up against one of the best ball teams in all Ohioland, Culver, although defeated 49-42, played a magnificent and fighting game.

BASKETBALL EXTRAORDINARY . . . The hardwood menu was as varied as it was exciting. For example, strange as it may seem, photographic evidence here at the left shows Culver and Ashland players on a friendly and an even footing—as they take on a post-game light snack. Things weren't so chummy a few minutes earlier, as is shown at right when both teams battled for each and every advantage.

BOXING . . . "The Quest for Golden Gloves" would be an appropriate story title describing the work of the varsity boxing team, who again achieved an undefeated season. The coveted gold pendants, traditionally awarded to members of Culver boxing teams who go through their seasons without defeat, were well-earned by the members of the 1948 team . . . Faced with the responsibility of maintaining a thirteen-year record in which Culver had never been defeated in the local ring, a squad of more than 100 cadets reported for the pre-holiday workouts. Under the watchful eye of veteran Coach Mike Carpenter, who was again assisted by Jock Sutherland, the team shaped up rapidly, and things looked promising . . . For the season's curtain raiser, the team journeyed to Delphi on January 31, where the second-string boxers won six out of twelve matches . . . An enthusiastic and anxious crowd was on hand the next week-end to witness the opening of the home season, in which Culver won a 7-3 victory over Delphi, three out of five bouts with St. Joseph college, and two of three exhibitions with South Bend boxers. Raul Serrano, Norman Bogatinoff, Jack Heidt, George Spiros, and Dan Pope posted victories in the Delphi matches. Ket Barber lost a close decision to St. Joseph's Dave Young, while Dick Steiner and Tony Lamborn won first round TKO's. Miguel Garcia and Chuck Goldman fought their way to victories in the exhibitions . . . For the Valentine Day exhibitions, Coach Carpenter matched the team with a group of South Bend fighters.

IMPACT might be the word, but you would say SOCKO—and socko it is here in Culver's popular "Ring Bowl" where Dan Pope connects with a driving left to the chin of his St. Rita opponent.

CLIMAX OF THE SEASON came February 21, when the cadet team scored a 10-3 victory over St. Mary's Academy, Wisconsin State Champions. Ed Henshaw, Jim Pavlicek, Joe McVicker, Don Seay, Billy Hood, George Spiros, Eduardo Novoa, and Jerry Heidt won their fights. All that stood between Culver boxers and their Gold Gloves was a victory over Chicago's City Champions—St. Rita High School. Culver came from behind to win six of the eleven matches. Billy Hood won easily; Jack Parriott TKOed his man in a flurry of blows; Eduardo Novoa and Joe McVicker tallied two more victories. Behind one match, Tony Lamborn TKOed his opponent in the first round to tie the score. In the decisive match, Chuck Goldman came through with the decision to win. The '48 team had again won the right to wear the Golden Gloves and there was little doubt that they were well-earned.

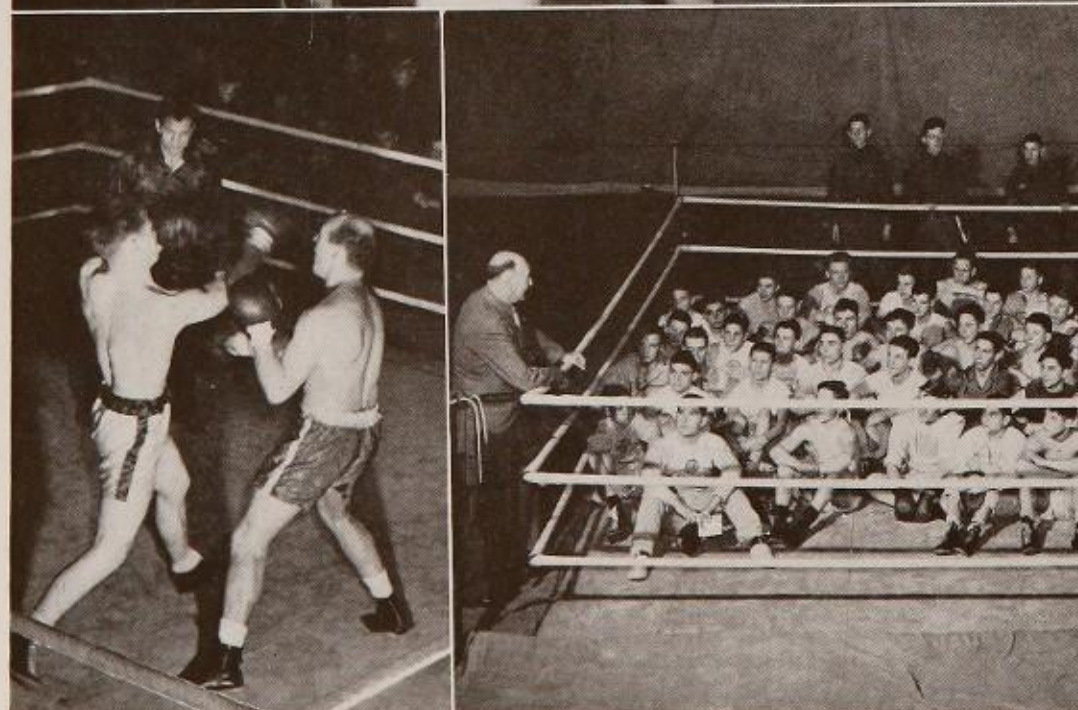

THRILLS A PLENTY . . .

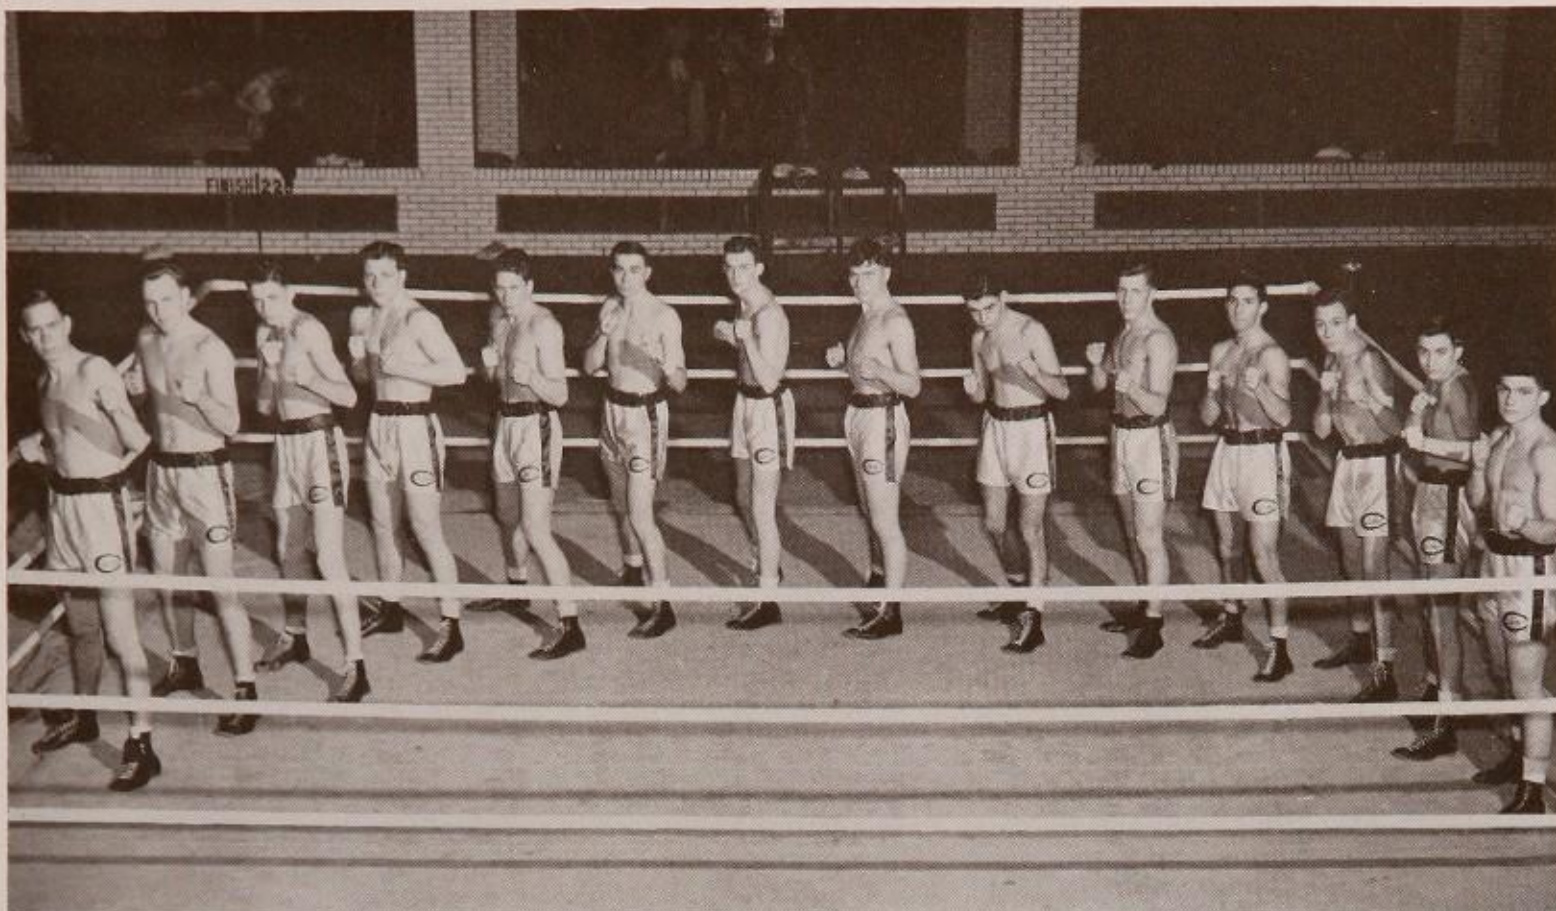

Yes, throughout the ring season, there was action galore . . . a split-second sample of some fast leather throwing is pictured over left where the aggressive Chuck Goldman has his opponent on the defensive and at the right where Eduardo Novoa is driving his man into the corner.

ALL THE ELEMENTS of colorful sports events were always in evidence . . . even the minute between-rounds respite contributed a bit of drama, as is evidenced here where Coaches Mike Carpenter and Jock Sutherland have stepped to the corner to give Harry Ruhf a few words of wisely concocted encouragement.

THE BOXING ARENA was certainly the setting for lots of our memories . . . It was the determination of veterans like Burt Lane over left who seems to be doing quite well with his ring opponent . . . or maybe you recall those Monday afternoon seminars pictured at the right where Mike gave you the works.

TRACK . . . Boasting a record of three consecutive undefeated seasons, candidates for the varsity track team took to the cinders following Spring vacation, for what promised to be a highly competitive season. On paper, prospects appeared excellent, since Coaches Mike Carpenter and Coke Smith had a nucleus of 23 hold-overs from the 1947 championship team. Much was expected from Jack and Jim Beardsley, and Henchey in the sprints; Atkinson, Steinbrenner, and Dick and George Steiner, in the hurdles; Ket Barber, Kurtz, Rog Johnson, Bob Barnes, Barrett, and Shepherd in the field events; and Vern McCall, Dortch, Dugan, Randolph, Hillis, Fred and Mart Tahse, and Harry King in the flatraces. New comers showing promise included Harry Ruhf, Jerry Heidt, Bill Wheatley and Dick Newell. Tom Greenway was among the top milers.

CULVER'S THINCLADS were tentatively scheduled to meet St. Ignatius, St. Leo, and St. George—all worthy high school opponents from the Chicago Catholic League, Pullman Tech; and there was the possibility that the cadet cinder path artists would meet DePaul and Loyola Academy. Climax of the season was scheduled for May 22 at Elgin, Ill., where the cadets would defend their crown in the Mid-West Prep Conference Championship. On May Day the Culver Squad opened its season with a double victory, defeating St. George, 91-18, and St. Leo, 87½-21½.

SPORTS CASTING . . . Six class periods of books and blackboards and drill, then came four o'clock, a dash back to barracks to dump your books, and then you were off for recreation. Hurrying to the gym, you went out for the sport of your choice . . . You were among 480 athletes who participated in one or more of fifteen varsity sports, and no matter whether you were on the sidelines or actually in the melee of nearly one hundred contests, you played a part in the program at one time or another. Hours and hours were spent in training, and perfecting skills and team performance . . . Naturally football, basketball, boxing and track held the spotlight for many of us as has already been indicated here in this athletic record of the year. The pause here is a reminder that other sports on the varsity level including: cross-country, swimming, wrestling, polo, crew, baseball, golf, tennis, fencing and squash were equally important. . . . Yes, the familiar spikes, pool, mats, mallets, oars, bats, tees, racquets, and epees, to say nothing of the "do-or-die" team spirit, had a powerful appeal. . . . The overall supervision of the program was directed by Major Frank Walaitis, ably assisted by a host of coaches, student managers, and athletic officers. Each sport drew its quota of fans and it was not unusual to find a half dozen contests going at the same time; in fact on one mid-winter week-end, seven varsity teams saw action in eight contests. Thrills were the order of the day, whether it was a close finish on the lake, or the clash of the broadswords. Certainly, you now recall how Culver teams met their opponents with lots of zeal.

VOLUMES could be written on the memory-packed varsity sports parade of 1948. For example in FOOTBALL, you might recall the "Fancy Dan" passing attack, or an end play.

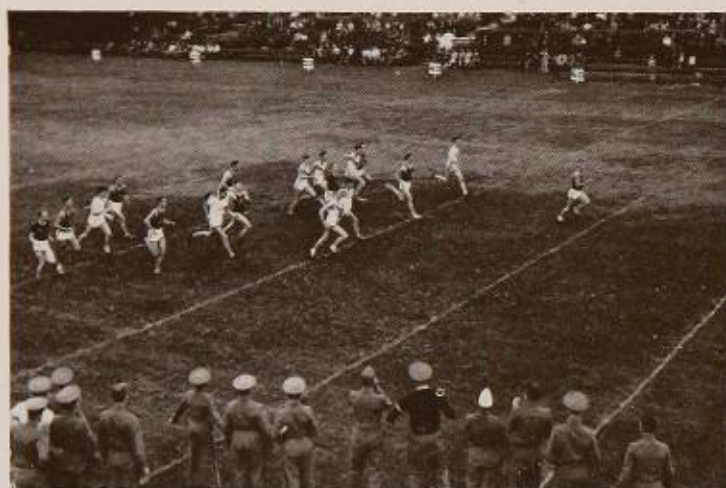

. . . In BASKETBALL, there were innumerable instances where Rog Johnson, Jim Shaw, Don Messenger, Art Kurtz, and others played climatic roles. . . . BOXING, of course, you recall Chuck Goldman's decisive win over his St. Rita opponent, or one of Dan Pope's matches, or some other ring event.

. . . CROSS-COUNTRY—Bill Wheatley in his record 10-33.6 race against Loyola. . . . SWIMMING, where Rooke, Slavik, Steiner, Lechner and Company splashed their way to two dual-meet victories. . . . WRESTLING—the mat work of Hunt, Brooks, Fisher, Bobo, and others of the '48 squad. . . . POLO—remember the Ransom-Mills-Ellis rally in the Milwaukee contest . . . Recall the confusion when more than one-hundred turned out for the initial CREW practice in late March . . . RIFLE—The winning five out of six firsts in the Mid-West Matches . . . FENCING—where Netick, Kepler, and Yocum slashed to a 19-8 win over Illinois Tech . . . the leadership of Heller, Reilly, and Leib on the SQUASH courts . . . TENNIS where Don Martin and Dick Simon headed twenty netmen on the clay courts . . . GOLF—found McVicker and Lowry and the other varsity divot diggers, along the lake shore walk on their way to the first tee . . . TRACK—remember the conditioning and time trials where values for the cinder path artists were measured many times in split seconds and inches.

CROSS COUNTRY . . . Pre-season conditioning for more than twenty-five hill-and-dale aspirants began in September. With Mike Carpenter on sick leave, Dr. Hardigg Sexton was assigned to the coaching post with T. V. Ritchey as his assistant. On October 11, when the intra-squad race was held, there was evidence of speed and stamina as two new-comers, Bill Wheatley and Dick Newell placed first and second, respectively. Wheatley and King paced the Culver squad in a thrilling 24-31 victory over Loyola in the first meet of the year. Then Mt. Carmel's speed merchants inflicted a stinging 13-42 setback. On November 1, the cadets won from St. Leo, but lost to DePaul. In the last race of the season, Culver lost a 34-19 decision to Wheaton College. At the seasons' close, Harry King and Bill Lusher were elected co-captains, and twenty-four letters were awarded.

SWIMMING . . . Considering all things, the varsity swimmers achieved an excellent record during a season in which they faced some of the best teams in the Middle West. In the first meet, Culver came from behind to win a sparkling 34-32 decision over the highly regarded Huntington "Y". Next, the Walaitis-coached team scored a 38-28 upset over the Indianapolis "Y", afterwards losing close contests to the powerful Indianapolis Athletic Club and Fenwick H. S. The season's highlight came March 6, when Culver was again host for the Mid-West Prep Invitational Meet. In a stiff field of eight teams, the cadets piled up 55 points for the runner-up position to the Fenwick team. Through the season, Al Lechner and Don Slavik led the team in free style competition; George Steiner in the breast-stroke; and F. C. Ellis in the backstroke.

WRESTLING . . . Co-Captains Brooks and Hunt headed nine lettermen and several company grapplers, who answered Coach Estey's call for varsity workouts in January. Pre-season injuries sidelined several veterans, and Dick Kingswood was the only Culver wrestler to win his match as the cadets suffered a 40-5 setback at the hands of McKinley Park in the opening contest. Moore, Brooks, Cain, and Hunt scored falls as the cadets defeated Lyons Junior College, 31-12. Later Culver scored a 21-3 victory over the Lyons grapplers. In an exciting match, the South Chicago "Y" team posted a 26-25 victory over the cadets. Mention should be made of the competitive mat work of Bill Morrison, John Kourmadas, Kingswood, Jimmy Fisher, Dave MacKenzie, Brooks, Don Martin, Moore, J. A. POLO . . . Few varsity sports demand as much time in perfecting skill and team play as does Polo. Culver, long noted for its horsemanship activities, was again represented by an excellent team, which successfully engaged formidable opposition in an eleven-contest schedule. In the absence of Major Charles Maull, who was on sick leave during most of the season, Major Stone took over the coaching reins. The first string composed of Bill Mills, Al Ellis, and Captain Floyd Ransom proved to be a hard-riding, and high-scoring trio of malleteurs. The second team members, Bob Schless, Bob Gray, and Bill Parke, all underclassmen, deserve credit, particularly for their fine performance when they defeated their Chicago opponents, 10-3. Climax of the season came on April 15, when the Detroit Evergreen trio won top laurels in the Second Annual Polo Cup matches.

CREW . . . The 23rd of February saw the arrival of new oars and the long awaited pair of pococks; spring vacation saw the erection of the temporary aluminum boat houses; the ice disappeared toward the end of March; the crew took to the water in April; and the first race was scheduled for May 8th at Chicago. More than 100 eager oarsmen came BASEBALL . . . Training season for the diamond enthusiasts began immediately following spring vacation, when Coaches Oliver and Sutherland issued a call for candidates. Favorable weather gave the team an early start and veterans from last year's nine, together with a good turnout of rookies, took advantage of excellent conditions for limbering up. Heading the list of '47 letter winners were Captain Jack Walter and Eeke Ellis, both infielders; and Harry Magruder and Pete Hensel, outfielders. Reserve lettermen competing for positions included: Jay Hanna and Bliss McCrum, both pitchers; Charley Ferdon and Ed Henshaw, infielders; Bob Oliver, catcher; and Fitch Walmer, outfielder. Culver looked impressive in winning a doubleheader from Park School on May 1. In shutting out Park, 8-0 and 1-0, pitchers like Zeke Ellis and Ara Berberian turned in neat slab performances, as each allowed only two hits. Earlier the cadets lost a 9-5 decision to St. Rita.

TENNIS . . . The Culver clay courts were again the scene of the annual Mid-West Prep Conference Tennis Meet on May 29; that date also saw the close of what was hoped to be a successful season. . . . The season's only returning letterman was Dick Simons. Fifty cadets came out for the team and while competition was close, at press time top performers included: Simons, Martin, Abshier, C. Morris, G. Kaufman, P. Vosburgh and A. Weil. Of the few men who played the year before, there were reserve winners Don Martin and H. A. Abshier along with Bogatinoff, Streicher, Kihm and others. As usual, the weather was the question mark, but none the less, practice was begun after spring vacation, first, indoors, and then outside in anticipation of the opening contest on May 1st with Park School. The tentatively arranged schedule of five games was announced early in the spring. Assisting Col. R. H. Shanks in coaching the 1948 clay court squad was Melvin Estey.

paraiso University, and Glenwood H. S. The climax of the season was due to come on May 29 when the playoffs in the Mid-West Prep Conference Meet was scheduled for the Culver course. Co-Captains Bob Lowry, and Joe McVicker, and other veterans, including Bob Stanton, B. Miller, Mgr., Pete Smith, Poncet Davis, and Charlie Spross were certainly out after old man par. Impressive in their first two encounters, the varsity linksmen won 10½-7½ over the Faculty, and 16-0 over St. Rita. Notre Dame defeated Culver 18½-3½ then the cadets lost 4-8 to St. George.

THE PANORAMA OF COMPANY SPORTS during the year found company athletic teams competing for regimental laurels in thirteen sports. Loyalty to the company was never more in evidence than it was as each team competed for championships as is shown above on the field where competition was keen. Below a dramatic moment in that crucial Soccer contest between Company D and the unscored on Company A teams. Company D has one ticketed for the goal, but Snead fends off the thrust.

INTER-COMPANY SPORTS began early in the year; you were hardly settled in your barracks before the program eventually began to determine the winner of the Athletic Plaque, held for the past two years by Company D. First came the call for gridiron candidates. On adjacent practice fields, company soccer players battled through the hot September days for positions on their respective teams. . . . "Fightin' D" and Company B were pitted against each other in the gridiron playoffs, and most of the Corps braved the weather to witness the "Mud Bowl" game, which ended in a 13-13 tie. In soccer, a championship Company A team set an all-time record when they breezed through the entire season without being scored upon. . . . November and December brought wrestling and swimming. Company D, traditional regimental wrestling champions, took second to "A's" matmen in a close contest. Artillery II's swimmers paddled their way to the regimental championship. . . . January and February brought basketball, and, on the rifle range, company marksmen shot it out. "D" marksmen edged out the teams by one point. A hard and scrappy Artillery II basketball team outpointed Company "B's" quintet in the playoff, 21-18. . . . The Easter season introduced squash, bowling, volleyball, and track; each in turn reflected the spirit that made winning the Athletic Plaque a real accomplishment. . . . Warmer weather arrived, and you turned to the outdoors again. Baseball, tennis, and golf gave new spirit to May, and June provided the thrills of company boxing, which brought to a close another full year of company sports.

FOOTBALL—a unique circumstance occurred in '48 when two football teams were awarded monograms as regimental champions, and both "B" and "D" earned the distinction. Company A was defeated in the semi-finals, 13-6, by "D". When the two teams finally faced each other, the Company B eleven was backed with a record of being the only undefeated and untied team in the competition. "Fightin' "D" had suffered only one defeat and had outscored its opponents, 59-20. The game showed each team's power, and the score—13-13 showed each team's spirit . . . SOCCER—On the soccer field, Company A achieved the distinction of not only winning, but also of being the only team in the race which was unscored against. As proof of the material "A" had on its team, four of the eleven men on the all-company team were from West. . . . BASKETBALL—The hardwood championship was decided between "B" and Artillery II. "B" went on to the court with a record of seven wins and one loss; Artillery II boasted six wins and two losses. The final gun sounded with the Battery quintet in possession of a three-point, 21-18 victory.

MORE COMPETITION FOR THE ATHLETIC PLAQUE, followed, and between winter and spring sports, VOLLEYBALL took the spotlight. The entire tournament lasted no longer than a week, but when the nets were finally taken down, Company A emerged as champions to add more points to its standing. . . . SWIMMING—The swimming championship was seized from 1947's winner, "B", when Troop I and Artillery II battled for honors. The finals were held immediately before Christmas, and the results—Artillery swam ahead to gain a four-point victory. . . . But the RIFLE competition was even keener and defeat more bitter. "D", Troop I, and "A" stood at the top of the marksmanship ladder, and victory was only one rung higher. Each team knew its number of points, and under that strain, the men fired their final targets. By one point, D Company emerged victorious. . . . Those white monograms in WRESTLING were hard-won. The defending champions, "D", finally were forced to yield to a new championship team, and Company A walked off the mats with their new distinction and honor.

VOLLEYBALL — COMPANY A — REGIMENTAL CHAMPIONS. Bottom row, left to right: V. H. McCall, J. B. Seeley, E. G. Tyrrell, J. P. Brownrigg, H. Hunt, and H. J. Walter. Second row: P. R. Eagan, A. B. McCrum, R. D. Ellis, D. S. Martin, and D. O. MacKenzie.

SWIMMING—ARTILLERY II REGIMENTAL CHAMPIONS. Sitting left to right: C. Campbell, J. P. Osborn, W. W. Morrison, R. J. Laux, N. A. Moffat, W. A. Macomber, L. J. Pavlicek, and J. P. Raibourn. Standing: W. H. Wright, H. D. Harper, H. C. Grimes, and J. Kisber.

THANKSGIVING, EASTER, COMMENCEMENT
the Infantry, Mounted Service, and First Class Dances pleasant times . . . for those were the times, when guests were swarming around the grounds seeing the sights, that Culver seemed most like home. If your own best girl was far off, why you arranged a blind date, or invited your roommate's sister. You tried to plan it all out beforehand . . . get rooms, find transportation . . . yet that last minute wail was still to be heard: "Please, won't somebody find me a room?" But when you finally got your dates or family here, then the fun began . . . You dragged them to watch the sports and special exhibitions, trying to impress them with our G.I.'s and parades.
Still, all these things were classed as "besides the dance"; the dance was a festive occasion to which every first classman looked expectantly, every plebe somewhat apprehensively.
. . . You went to the Inn for corsages . . . low shoes taken out now . . . Most times you met your dates inside, and took them to the gym that looked so different, decorated with posters and streamers and lanterns . . . Coke machines and the punch bowl were set in the mythical forest on the dirt track . . . the orchestra played . . . you danced. Perhaps you were cut in on and joined the stag line. Perhaps you sat the "fast ones" out.
You might have retreated to the punch bowl or enjoyed a stroll by the lake shore. The time passed . . . you danced the last dance. The evening was at an end. At last good-bye
. . . a race to Message Center to check in . . . taps.

THE DANCE

The orchestra played . . . some danced, some joined the stag line . . . others surrounded the punch bowl.

It's good old talking bridge.

Saturday night at Culver's Bijou.

SPENDING [THE EVENING at a faculty home, you found that the instructors were really people after all. Playing bridge, guzzling cokes, going to the movie, or just talking, made us feel almost like civilians again after living so long in barracks. Similarly, it was relaxing to escape the every day meal formation and Mess Hall food. "Give me a pen, where's the book?" were familiar words. Checking out with some of the boys was just another one of those little things, little things that you all enjoyed.

"Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells."

CHRISTMAS CAROLLING—Singing from house to house, then down to the shack for cocoa and doughnuts; that was "B" Company. For "A", it was a decorated conference room . . . ridiculous presents under a Christmas tree . . . Following the Stroller's presentation of the play "Hayfever", there were the First Classmen troubadours who went a-singing along Faculty Row. . . . Those were just a few of the activities suggesting the pre-Christmas Spirit that caught up with you before we grabbed the train.

Hold that pose.

Let him have it!

IT'S FUNNY HOW YOU REMEMBER little things—little things like snowball fights between the Infantry and Mounted Service or the Company picnics with their games and hamburgers. Perhaps we remember some of them because they were out of the ordinary—square dances in Music and Arts Building . . . skits in the conference room . . . Sunday afternoon bull sessions . . . excursions 'round the campus . . . water polo in the pool . . . ice skating during recreation . . . shooting skeet . . . full-firsters playing baseball during C.Q. . . . good times which didn't appear on a memorandum order. . . . they were the good times that spelled fun.

OUR CULVER WEEKS were busy, yet there was time to get into town and see a movie, or play a few hands of bridge, or maybe go out to the bird sanctuary. Yes, it was such little things as shooting a game of pool or playing a game of ping-pong in the canteen or a horseshoe match out back of Argonne that rounded out an otherwise routine week.

Nearly every Saturday, disc fiends crowded the downtown record shop where they procured their favorite recording.

Got "Feudin' and a Fightin'?"

The clubroom melting pot . . . a little bridge . . . a brief smoke . . . a bit of relaxing . . . the latest joke . . . a lot of talking . . . this was the setting where First Classmen and Second Classmen met.

I do hope you will be pleased with my selections and that I did them as you wished. & the many
It was quite hard due to the best very attractive girls ready for group I have ever judged. Thank you for asking me. Sincerely Barbara Stanwyck

“LET’S WANDER ONCE MORE TO THE WALK BY the shore . . . with a pal from the Corps or a girl we adore
. . . Fellows with blue stripes, with yellow and red . . .
Where rifles and horses and caissons have fled . . . Let’s sing one more song for the days that are gone . . . For the hours are not long till that last kiss at dawn . . . We’ve spent joyful years, tonight brings a tear . . . Then . . . the Old Iron Gate.” . . . Here is the section many of you consider the most important. It is the record of the men to whom this book is primarily dedicated—the 176 white stripers of ’48, headed by class president Charles Christians, vice-president Bob Dortch, and secretary-treasurer Ket Barber . . . As you leaf through these pages, you will be able to recall those memorable times you spent with the fellows . . . That indescribable feeling when you first looked at your white stripes

. . . The wild dash to order your ring from Mr. Williams and the feeling inside when you first put it on . . . Your disappointment in not having the new club room . . .
The simplicity of the book compared to making our permits . . . The bull sessions in the garden when winter was a thing of the past . . . The sings on Saturday nights after the show . . . The expectant feeling before the mid-year makes. . . All of those small incidents marked the long road to that venerable exit, the Old Iron Gate . . . Here are the pictures of the fellows who made the class of ’48 what it was—the best in all of Culver’s fifty-four years.

ON SAYING FAREWELL TO CULVER

BEFORE THE DAY OF PARTING COMES, BEFORE
I TAKE MY PLACE AMONG THE WORLD OF MEN, E'er BUGLES SOUND THEIR FINAL NOTES, E'er WHEN
THE HAND OF TIME SHALL CLOSE FOR EVERMORE
THIS CHAPTER OF MY LIFE, I'LL WALK ALONE
ACROSS THESE LAWNS, AMONG THESE STately TOWERS
RECALLING MEMORIES OF HAPPY HOURS, AND BID SILENT FAREWELL TO EVERY ONE,
THESE LOYAL FRIENDS I'VE FOUND, I'LL NEER FORGET:
THEY'LL EVER KEEP MY SOUL ALIVE, AGLOW
WITH YOUTHFUL MEMORIES, AND WHEN I SPAN
THE COMING YEARS, BEFORE MY STAR HAS SET,
I'LL STAND WITH PRIDE ONCE MORE, AND SAY: "I KNOW
SHE SENT INTO THE WORLD A CULVER MAN!"

IN RETROSPECT

What once seemed a dream is now a reality as the time comes to close the work on this, the 1948 ROLL CALL. All of the members of the staff spent much time and effort in planning, editing, and producing this Forty-fourth volume. The photos have been selected, the copy and captions have been written and edited, 175 pages have been proof read and okayed, and the 1949 staff is already at work on a new volume.

In presenting this review of the year, our motif is reflected—and we hope desirably so—in the layout and design, and in the coverage of events and activities. Culver's 1947-48 personalities as developed in these pages reflects a lot of events and activities . . . in fact, it represents you.

There has been a marked degree of cooperation among the members of the staff, who are grateful for the friendly help from the Corps and the Faculty. In particular the board of editors wish to extend their appreciation to the following: The S. K. Smith Co. of Chicago, Ill.; Oliver D. Rogers and The Rogers Printing Co. of Dixon and Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Fred Noer and the staff of the Indianapolis Engraving Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. Frank Simmons and The Moffett Studios of Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Carl Morgan of Argos, Ind.; and Mr. Warner Williams, Culver's artist and resident.

Soon after the book is issued comes the final formation and with it closes ten months of hard work, hours of happiness and gloom, triumphs and setbacks which we have taken in our stride here at Culver. With all, it has been a glorious year, and we sincerely hope that within the covers of this volume we have captured and preserved a few glimpses of the big events and the little things, all of which are now memories.

Our last bit of space is nearly gone, but we wish to say that it has been a privilege to have edited this volume of the ROLL CALL and in so doing to continue the record of the life and development of Culver Military Academy. There will be some mistakes, which we assure you are not intentional, only human. Hope you like it. . . .
